Tests Of Manned Space Ship Set Over Desert

2 PILOTS READIED FOR JOB

Craft Will Fly At Speeds In Thousands

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The experimental rocket ship X15, expected to swoosh a man into space next year, will be tested over a range stretching from California to Utah, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Two of the pilots who will fly the craft told a news conference the flight patch will be over dry lake beds extending between Edwards AFB in California's Mojave Desert and Wendover AFB in Utah.

The X15 is expected to soar hundreds of miles high at speeds of thousands of miles an hour in research flights.

Some details of its program were discussed by Air Force Capt. Ivan C. Kincheloe and Joseph Walker of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

They said the X15 would be launched from a B-52 bomber at an elevation of 40,000 feet. Dry lake beds near the Edwards and Wendover bases would be utilized for a landing.

480 Miles

The distance between the two air bases is 480 miles. Kincheloe, 29, who has flown more than 70 different types of aircraft, declined to disclose how long the X15 might be in flight, but he said it would be somewhat longer than the 17 minutes he piloted the experimental X2.

He estimated the speed of the X15 on its initial flight at 3,600 miles an hour and its altitude capability at 100 miles.

"This does not mean that this will be done the first time we step into the plane," Kincheloe said.

Kincheloe and Walker said that indications are that the X15 will be given its first flight early in 1959, perhaps in March, by Scott Crossfield, test pilot for North American Aviation, Inc., which is building the plane.

Preparation

Kincheloe and Walker said they are undergoing a year of preparation at Edwards AFB, flying modified versions of the X1 and X2.

"We are preparing ourselves analytically and technically by simulating exit problems and the gravitational load on the pilot," Kincheloe said.

"We feel that we have adequate escape means from the X15. It has a very comfortable cockpit. I think it's a very plush setup, compared with the X1."

The X15 is expected to far exceed the performance of the X2, hottest previous research craft, which flew at 2,200 m.p.h. to nearly 130,000 feet.

Kincheloe said the X15 will "bring back data for orbital flight" in which a manned aircraft eventually would circle the earth as have the Russian Sputniks.

"I definitely want to be a part of orbital flight," Kincheloe said. "I do, too," added Walker.

SEC. DULLES DEPARTS

Repeat Defense Pledge Tough Tone Used By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower met Russia's newest test against American Middle East policy Wednesday by denouncing "Communist imperialism" for threatening the independence of the area.

Eisenhower fired back at Russia's accusations as Secretary of State Dulles left for a 10-day flying visit to Turkey, Iran and Morocco.

Accompanied by seven advisers, Dulles took off in a special Air Force plane after issuing his own farewell denunciation of the Russians for advertising his trip as aimed at forcing American missiles on Mideast nations.

Totally False

Such charges, leveled by the Soviet Foreign Office Tuesday, are "totally false," he said. He went on to blast a Soviet statement that the Moslem nations of the Middle East are armed with nuclear weapons it will be an "insult" to their religion.

It is incredibly arrogant, Dulles said, for "aggressive atheists" to insist that those who believe should, on that account, be militarily inferior to them.

Eisenhower firmly backed Dulles' mission in a separate White House statement which expressed the "deep concern of the United States for the security and economic development of this part of the free world."

Eisenhower authorized Dulles to express the government's "constant and unwavering support" for the principles of collective security which Mideast countries are seeking to strengthen via the Baghdad Pact.

Dulles' main purpose will be to sit in as observer at the top level meeting in Ankara of the Baghdad Pact alliance which links Turkey, Iran, Pakistan, Iraq and Britain.

The United States, while not a full fledged member, is represented on three of the alliance's top committees.

Sun To Be Just Fond Recollection

Southeastern Nebraska, covered with a white blanket, will have its very brief sojourn with sunshine come to end Thursday, forecasters say.

A few snow flurries and cloudy skies are seen for Thursday and sleet and colder for Friday. The high temperature Thursday is not expected to go above freezing in the southeast.

Sunshine and warmer temperatures helped dig the southeastern tip of Nebraska out from a heavy blanket of snow Wednesday and helped to clear icy spots on the highways.

Wednesday's highs ranged from 33 at Scottsbluff to 40 at the Lincoln Airport and Grand Island.

The five-day forecast indicated temperatures of three to five degrees above normal in western Nebraska to near normal in the east. Normal highs are around 40.

Children Escape Serious Injuries

Two Lincoln youngsters escaped serious injury Wednesday in two car-pedestrian accidents.

Robert McDaniel, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. McDaniel of 5039 South was admitted to a Lincoln hospital with cuts and bruises after he was involved in an accident with a car driven by Virginia Duxbury, 26, of 5919 Newton on South between 51st and 52nd.

The four-year-old daughter, Mary Ellen, of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ritchey of 1409 So. 21st was knocked down but was not injured, a hospital reported, after she was involved in a mishap at 15th and O. Leroy Lundberg, 55, of 1831 Dakota told police he was making a left turn at about three miles per hour and was unable to stop before the car he was driving knocked the girl off her feet.

Officers Examine Death Weapons

Boy Saves Self As Family Slain

Beatrice Father Kills Wife, 3 Children, Self; Son Grabbed Gun

By BILL HINEL
Beatrice Bureau

BEATRICE, Neb. — A 14-year-old son's successful struggle to wrest a smoking pistol from his father Wednesday left him the sole survivor of a family of six. Police said that apparently the father shot and killed his wife, two daughters and another son with the pistol, scuffled with the surviving son, and then killed himself with a shotgun.

County Attorney William Rist said Sherman Dean

Williams, 41, shoe repair shop operator, shot his wife and three of his four children with the .32 caliber automatic as they lay in their beds. Each of the victims was shot through the head.

Williams then went to the basement of their cottage and took his own life with a .16 gauge shotgun.

Boy Called Police

The surviving son, 14-year-old Sherman, was reported to have struggled with his father, taking the gun away from him, but Williams then went to the basement and took his own life. The boy called police to report the tragedy.

Dead were Williams, who died as officers arrived; his wife, Dorothy, 38; a son, Richard, 9; daughters, Kathy, 6, and Mary Kay, 3. The two girls died at a Beatrice hospital several hours after the shooting.

Asst. Police Chief Clarence Nieman, on duty at the desk when the call from young Williams came in, said he heard a pop in the background while the boy was talking, but did not realize at the time that it was a shot.

Heard Shots

Nieman said the account given him by the boy was that Sherman had returned to his bedroom in the basement after carrying an early morning paper route when he heard the shots, came upstairs and met his father at the head of the stairs.

The two struggled and the father struck the boy, Nieman said, but the boy got the pistol. The boy told police he then went through the house and saw the bodies and called police.

Police said there were two unused cartridges in the pistol.

While the boy was on the telephone, the father went to the basement and took one of several guns that were kept in the basement and took his own life. The boy told police he heard the shotgun blast that killed his father.

Officials indicated that no inquest was planned in the deaths.

No motive was established for the incident, which shocked Beatrice and Wymore residents, other than that Williams had been depressed recently over financial affairs. He had only Tuesday night closed the Quick Shoe Repair Service he operated and had sold the equipment.

Reportedly To Work In Lincoln

He reportedly was going to go to work in Lincoln.

The family were new members of the First Christian Church of Beatrice. Williams was an ardent fisherman and hunter and an amateur photographer.

Williams had worked in the shoe repair store in Beatrice since 1942 and purchased it in 1952. He owned a shoe shop in Fairbury before coming to Beatrice. Previous to that time he had lived in Wymore.

Sherman is a high school sophomore and Richard was a third grader, and Kathy in kindergarten.

Neighbor Heard Nothing

A neighbor of the Williams', Mrs. John Borkowski, who lives next door, said she heard no shots and first learned of the tragedy when police and ambulance attendants were seen carrying the victims from the home at 1104 No. 6th St.

"They were wonderful neighbors," she said. "My husband will be shocked when he hears of the tragedy for we visited back and forth a lot."

Mr. Williams is survived, in addition to his son, Sherman, by his mother, Mrs. Iva Williams of Wymore; a sister, Mrs. George Henrichs of Wymore; two brothers, Lester of Lincoln and Alton of Portland, Ore.

Mrs. Williams is survived by three brothers, Alvin Forney of Omaha, Donald Forney of Los Angeles, Calif., and Theodore Forney of Boston, Mass.; two sisters, Mrs. Edna Rhodes and Velma, both of Los Angeles, Calif.; a half-brother, Frank Zabokrtski of Blue Springs.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Griffith-Fox Funeral Home in Beatrice.

Shoe Shop Closed Recently

The Quick Shoe Repair Shop shown here was closed recently by Sherman Williams and the equipment sold to another repairman. Williams reportedly was in financial difficulties and was said to be going to seek employment in Lincoln. (Staff Photo)

2 Missile Killers Readied

Anti-Weapons Progress Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Excellent progress" toward the development of two weapons to destroy enemy missiles was reported Wednesday night by Maj. Gen. Robert J. Wood, the Army's deputy chief for research and development.

Wood disclosed that:

1. Components for the anti-missile Zeus, designed to intercept long range ballistic missiles, are "now in being." Previously the Defense Department has said only that the Zeus is under development.

2. Another anti-missile called Plato is being developed for use "in the field, in defense of our field armies."

"Our Answer"

Wood, in a speech for a meeting of Army's Medical Service Corps at Nearby Ft. Myer, Va., said the Zeus "is our answer to the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM)."

"Components of Zeus are now in being and the complete system is under development," he said. "We shall then be able—if we must—to parry the ICBM with a fatal punch."

Wood said the Plato missile system "will make use of some components of the Zeus missile system, and will be just as effective in its own area of operations."

The general added:

"While most information on the Plato and Zeus systems is still classified, I can assure you that we are making excellent progress in both phases of our anti-missile missile research and development."

Announcement of the formation of the urban renewal committee is the second official appointment by the downtown development organization. Earlier this week Robert Guenzel was named to head a committee to plan the incorporation of the downtown group and to select an official name.

Lawlor said that committees on parking, traffic, transit and promotion were yet to be named. Other committees may also be added as the program unfolds.

"Certain residential areas on the fringes of the central business district are badly in need of repair, renovation and various other improvements," Lawlor said. "It'll be the initial function of the Lincoln

Cushman Zone Change Protest Petitions Planned

A group of about 50 southeast Lincoln residents decided Wednesday night to circulate petitions opposed to the proposed zoning of a 109-acre tract just south of College View for heavy industry.

Earlier in the day, representatives of the same group filed a protest against any such zoning with the City Planning Commission, T. Neil Withrow of 3801 Stockwell, spokesman for the group, said.

Cushman Motor Works, a subsidiary of Outboard Maine, has requested the zoning so the site could be used for future expansion. The Chamber of Commerce has urged that the land, now owned by Edward M. O'Shea, be granted the heavy industry zoning.

The protesting group has set a target of 3,000 signatures on the petitions by Wednesday, the day of the hearing before the Planning Commission, Withrow said.

More than 750 persons have already committed themselves to sign, he said.

The residents are not opposed to Cushman's expansion, he said, but rather in favor of it. "We just feel there are other areas more adequate that can be used at a lesser cost."

Main points of opposition, he said, are:

—The tremendous cost to taxpayers of furnishing water and sewer lines to area, where now there are none.

—The traffic hazard caused by a limited access highway (Nebraska 2) running alongside the area.

—The smoke abatement difficulties expected.

—The recommendations of Elbridge Lovelace, city planning consultant to Lincoln, that industry not be located to the southeast, east and south of the city."

Bluff County, having served with the group for the past four years. He was elected chairman in 1956.

Little Known In East

It is generally understood that Davey, relatively unknown in popular eastern Nebraska, would have to make an intensive campaign effort should he decide to seek the nomination.

This triggered the move on the part of his western associates to aid any Davey campaign move with financial support.

Davey was a member of the Scottsbluff City Council for six years (1942-48) and president of the Scottsbluff Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He was an oil jobber and distributor during his early business career, now having leased oil stations throughout the vast expanse of western Nebraska.

Davey and his wife, Grace, have two children—Frank, a junior at Scottsbluff High School, and Charles Jr., a student at the University of Montana.

None Yet

No one has yet announced his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Edward Dosek of Lincoln, 58, is known to have delayed a previously set announcement to await developments in behind-the-scenes Democratic maneuvering.

Democratic State Chairman Willard Townsend of Lincoln said Tuesday that Walter Raecke, Central City attorney, was considering filing for the race, but Raecke told The Star he had not given serious consideration to the possibility and termed all talk of his candidacy "in the realm of speculation."

Chauncey Barney To Head Urban Renewal Committee

Chauncey E. Barney, Lincoln attorney, was named Wednesday to head a committee on urban renewal, according to John F. Lawlor, chairman of the Downtown Development Organizing Committee.

Announcement of the formation of the urban renewal committee is the second official appointment by the downtown development organization. Earlier this week Robert Guenzel was named to head a committee to plan the incorporation of the downtown group and to select an official name.

Lawlor said that committees on parking, traffic, transit and promotion were yet to be named. Other committees may also be added as the program unfolds.

Gaillard East-West Policy Is Approved

Rocket Launchers In France OK'd By Confidence Vote

PARIS (AP) — The National Assembly Wednesday night adopted 343-224 a motion expressing confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's foreign policy.

The vote followed a two-day debate on foreign affairs.

It implied parliamentary approval of Gaillard's handling of East-West relations, the future installation of rocket launching bases in France, and a whole series of North African problems ranging from French seizure of a Yugoslav cargo of arms allegedly consigned to the Nationalist rebels in Algeria.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau had told the deputies French defenses must include launching ramps for missiles able to reach Soviet territory.

Gaillard supported Pineau in demanding rockets as a military necessity.

"Why should those in the other camp who possess these missiles already, and who doubtless have them already installed, forbid us to possess them ourselves?" Gaillard demanded.

He also said a prerequisite for any East-West summit meeting would be concrete promises by the Soviet Union that it would not seek new zones of influence.

Gaillard said the military problem in Algeria is practically solved and the rebellion would die out if left to itself. Then he lashed out at Tunisian aid for the Algerian rebel movement. He warned that Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba "must understand he is gambling not only the future of French-Tunisian friendship but the chances his people have of overcoming their difficulties."

Pineau led off in the debate, arguing in favor of missile bases.

"There is no national defense possible for a country which lets itself be outclassed in armaments," he told Parliament in a foreign affairs debate.

Coed Is Queen Of Auto Show; First-Day Attendance 2,078

Twenty-year-old University of Nebraska sophomore Mary Patrick will reign as queen of the Lincoln Auto Show. She was chosen at the 1958 show opening Wednesday evening.

Miss Patrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Justin H. Patrick of Omaha, won the title over Carmen Scuka, 19, of 1424 N. who placed second, and Kathy Fisk, 19, also a University of Nebraska student, who placed third.

An estimated 2,078 persons viewed the show in Pershing Municipal Auditorium which featured the newest and oldest in automobiles, plus two performances of professional entertainment featuring the Mills Brothers.

Phil Hardy, chairman of the Auditorium Advisory Committee called the 1958 auto show, which runs through Sunday, "the greatest show yet" and commented on the fine audience response to the entertainers.

Drawing special attention from old car enthusiasts were exhibits of antique autos entered by members of the Horseless Carriage Assn. of Lincoln.

The show will open at 5 p.m. Thursday and Saturday with an additional program at 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Entertainment programs are scheduled for 4 and 7 p.m.

Reuther Warns Of Uncertainties

Share-Profit Plan Facing Floor Fight

... At Convention

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther warned his United Auto Workers Wednesday that their 1958 contract negotiations will be conducted in an unfavorable atmosphere because of uncertainties in the domestic economy and world conditions.

"These are unusual times and that is why we have proposed an unusual approach," he told 3,000 delegates to the UAW's special three-day convention here.

The convention will decide whether to support recommendations by Reuther and the UAW International Executive Board that a unique profit-sharing plan be one of the major demands on the auto industry's Big Three this year.

Curtice Declines

Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp., turned down an invitation to address the convention, asking Reuther in a letter to "review your demands carefully in the light of economic conditions," and adding:

"The whole country is worried about the problem of inflation and the business and employment prospects. It is fearful that a round of excessive wage increases this year will gravely aggravate these matters."

Curtice previously had termed the profit-sharing proposal "unrealistic."

Fight Expected

Some UAW members, led by Carl Stellato, president of the big Ford Local 600, are expected to make a floor fight later in the convention for shelving the profit-sharing plan in favor of a campaign for a four-day work week.

Reuther, in a 105-minute keynote speech interrupted 25 times by applause, accused big business of jeopardizing the nation's economy by taking so much in profits.

Goldwater Assailed

Reuther opened fire on Republican Sen. Goldwater of Arizona, a Rackets Committee member, who Monday night charged in a Detroit speech that "Reuther and the UAW are more dangerous to our country than Sputnik or anything Soviet Russia might do."

Reuther said, "Goldwater is mentally unbalanced—he needs a psychiatrist, he needs help."

In Washington, Goldwater said Reuther "cannot stand the truth being told about him" and therefore had resorted to calling Goldwater a "liar."

Rioting In Venezuela Kills 100

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Foes of President Marcos Perez Jimenez, already mourning 100 dead and hundreds of injured, renewed battle here Wednesday with government security forces.

Hospitals were jammed with casualties.

(Informed sources in Washington said hundreds were reported killed as the rioting increased and spread in Caracas and its outskirts. The U.S. State Department said it still had received no reports of any injury to U.S. citizens or damage to American property.)

In the new street fighting opposition groups were reported preparing to mass all their machine guns and rifles for a major battle in one section of the city, attempting to draw troops and police under a concentration of fire power.

General Strike

The first bloody rioting attended a general strike Tuesday. The capital showed visible damage of this protest against the strongman rule of Perez Jimenez.

The initial outbreak Tuesday was accompanied by heavy rifle and machine gun fire. Gasoline fire bombings destroyed at least 30 buses and 20 other vehicles. A textile factory was reported burned. Several houses were set afire. Windows of the closed shops were broken.

Donna Johnson, 17, Found Dead Of Shotgun Wound

Donna Johnson, 17, of 2145 L, was found dead Wednesday afternoon.

Deputy Lancaster County Sheriff Robert Anderson said Miss Johnson died of a blast from a 410 shotgun, "apparently by her own hand."

Miss Johnson was living with the Otto Nickens family on a farm two miles northeast of Denton.

Mr. and Mrs. Nickens found the girl's body at the foot of the stairs when they returned home about 4:30 Wednesday afternoon, Anderson said.

The gun belonged to Nickens.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, and sisters, Carolyn and Patricia, at home. Burial will be in Sioux City, Ia.

New Satellite Try Is Set For This Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (INS) — The U.S. is poised for a new attempt to rocket an earth satellite into orbit and the blast-off was expected sometime between Thursday morning and Saturday noon.

The 72-foot, three-stage Vanguard rocket, successor to the ill-fated space projectile which exploded and burned on the launching pad in the first effort last Dec. 6, was in position and undergoing last-minute checks.

If the pilot model is orbited, the Navy will begin preparations immediately for launching a 21-inch, fully-instrumented satellite in March.

The six-inch device is equipped with radio but carries no scientific instruments.

KKK Leader Fights Charge

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. James Cole, Carolinas Ku Klux Klan leader, took the first step Wednesday in what appeared to be a fight against facing North Carolina charges of inciting a riot.

The Southern Free Will Baptist preacher, 33, posted $1,000 bond at his home town of Marion, S.C. It appeared that an extradition hearing would be necessary to get him back here for trial on charges stemming from Saturday night's battle between Klansmen and Lumbee Indians near Maxton.

A Klan rally headed by Cole broke up before it started, and gathering Klansmen were dispersed by Indian gunfire.

Meanwhile, a second Klansman, James Garland Martin, drew a suspended 60-day sentence and a $60 fine at Maxton before an Indian judge for carrying a concealed weapon and for public drunkenness.

Dr. Thierstein To Head St. Elizabeth Medical Staff

Dr. Samuel T. Thierstein was elected president of the Medical Staff of St. Elizabeth's Hospital Wednesday night.

At a quarterly meeting the staff also elected Dr. F. H. Hathaway as vice president, Dr. G. E. Larson as treasurer and Dr. E. S. Maness as secretary.

Earl Cooper, 76, of 2107 So. 49th, died Wednesday. Survivors include a son, Herbert.

Storm Dead Number 35

By The Associated Press
The worst snow storm of the winter has completed its eastern sweep across the nation. It left at least 35 dead, some main highways clogged and—as a departing slap—coated much of New England with treacherous glaze.

The storm left parts of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and southern Michigan digging out from under a snow blanket a foot or more thick.

A freight train joined in a rescue operation in northwestern Illinois after 15 autos and 10 trucks bogged down in snow drifts up to eight feet deep. A caboose was added to the Illinois Central freight to transport several stranded motorists to their homes along the rail line.

The backlash of the storm peppered New England with rain, sleet and freezing rain as it moved out into the north Atlantic.

GOP Solon L. H. Smith Is Dead At 65

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Lawrence H. Smith (R-Wis.), 65, collapsed in the House restaurant Wednesday and was pronounced dead as he was being rushed to Walter Reed Hospital.

Rep. Reed (R-NY) told the House he had just ridden up the elevator with Smith to the first floor of the Capitol and went with him to the House restaurant.

As Smith went to a small table, Reed said, he collapsed and fell to the floor. Reed said he called for a doctor at once. Mrs. Smith also was summoned to the restaurant.

Dr. George Calver, Capitol physician, said Smith died of an acute coronary thrombosis resulting from arteriosclerotic heart disease. Smith sustained a similar attack three years ago.

This was the fourth death of a member of Congress since Congress reconvened Jan. 7. The flags on the Capitol Building have continued to fly at half staff since Jan. 11 when Rep. Russell Keeney (R-Ill) died.

With Smith's death, the lineup in the House was 232 Democrats, 197 Republicans and 6 vacancies.

Postponed
WASHINGTON (AP) — On account of the death of Rep. Lawrence Smith (R-Wis) the House put off until Thursday action on an emergency defense money bill.

Smith died as debate on the $1,410,000,000 bill got under way. The House adjourned shortly afterward.

Soviets Claim Magnetic Space Channels Harnessed To Guide Missiles

Ress Refuses Maintenance Pay Raise

State Engineer L. N. Ress Wednesday turned down a request from the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO that it be given formal recognition as the bargaining agent for Highway Department maintenance employees and that such employees be granted a wage increase.

Ress said he refused these requests, as well as one that a formal grievance committee be established, at a meeting in his office with union representatives Ted Fontaine of Lincoln, Don Whitehorn of Newman Grove, Leon Schneider of Omaha, and Ted Trautman of Grand Island.

The union sought a wage increase of 15 cents an hour for hourly employees, and $30 a month for salaried employees.

Believes Not Needed
Ress said he rejected the idea of a wage increase because he believes it is not needed. He added, "We gave them a wage increase last October when we reduced their hours from 48 to 45 hours, and did not reduce their take-home pay."

Ress said he told the union representatives that he would forward their requests to Gov. Anderson for his consideration.

Fontaine, union representative, said he believes the union is justified in asking the wage hike. "Every wage earner knows it is increasingly difficult to buy groceries, pay rent and purchase goods on his present wages."

To Go To Vic
He stated that the union will present these same requests to Gov. Anderson within the next week. The group also will present "data to support the requests," Fontaine said.

800 to 1,000 Workers
There are about 1,000 maintenance employees during the summer, months and about 800 during the winter months.

Fontaine said union membership among the employees totals about 600.

Ress said the hourly employees on the common laborer scale receive $1.26 an hour, and that skilled laborers "receive at least 50 cents more per hour."

ets, claims radio guidance gives intercontinental missiles a "precision of which no artilleryman ever dreamed."

Writing in the Moscow magazine "Technics and Youth," he declares that precision is attained by creation of tunnels or gun barrels consisting of directed radio waves.

Pokrovsky's article was reported Tuesday by the Soviet news agency Tass. According to Tass, Pokrovsky predicts mankind will fill the solar system with electromagnetic structures similar to highways, bridges, stations, crossings and viaducts to constitute an invisible and immobile architecture of the ether.

Tass said the Pokrovsky article describes how exactitude of shots with intercontinental ballistic missiles and Sputnik-bearing rockets is assured.

send directed radio waves after the rocket. These waves form something on the order of a narrow canal or tunnel along which the rocket thrusts. At the slightest declination of the rocket to the side it enters a zone where the intensity of radio waves is greater than in the central channel. The waves act on the instruments of automatic guidance and the rocket returns to the central channel.

Conversion By Bankruptcy

Dr. Millard G. Roberts, president of Parsons College, Iowa, thinks an economic setback might re-establish the American people's belief in God and regain their respect for spiritual values.

While America's churches are steadily growing in size, number and content, President Roberts ventured the opinion that the United States has the fewest practicing Christians since the Civil War.

He told an Omaha audience that Americans have a weakness of preferring to believe in themselves.

We shall have to leave it to a more competent judge—one who has the superhuman ability to look inside the heart of a person—to enumerate the number of practicing Christians, but most of us will go along with the good doctor on the point that no generation of men has yet arisen with enough inherent sense to run life properly, and of all forms of creation most needing guidance, or at least humility, it is humankind.

Without accepting Mr. Roberts' prescription or the results of his religious census his general observation is valid. It is not an oversimplification to say that spiritual laws are just as precise and disciplinary as physical laws and people can no more keep society out of trouble breaking them than they can keep a rocket from blowing their heads off if they ignore physics. Acceptance of that fact would be a better proctor of successful American life than a depression.

Pride In Finished Product

We would guess that Mayor Bennett Martin would be the last one to turn down an invitation to take part in any dedication ceremonies. It is not because the mayor has any love for publicity or particularly likes public speaking but he takes a lot of satisfaction in seeing a finished product.

This was no doubt the case when he spoke at the dedication of the $220,000 addition to and renovation of Norwood Park elementary school. Once initial planning, the program and its financing have been determined, Martin is anxious to see the job completed.

This is also what the taxpayers like. When a bond issue is voted, the people have given approval to a project and they expect results within a reasonable length of time. It is heartening to see such things as the water program, sewer improvements and others move ahead on schedule once their way has been cleared.

Exit Dollar A Year Man

Politicking Or No?

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A second-grader became very interested in the latest TV appearance of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson. It was the occasion of Benson's appearance before the Senate Agricultural Committee. The secretary was constantly interrupted during his presentation of a 24-page report and it took him some 2½ hours to deliver the first four pages. Every time Benson uttered a word, a committee member interrupted with a statement or question of his own. The second-grader understood little of the subject involved but the procedure intrigued him. "Why don't they let that man talk?" the child asked with a baffled expression. He could not understand the rudeness of the committee members and how could it be explained to him?

There would be no age limit on the inability to understand some recent political activity. From Chicago on Monday night, President Eisenhower asserted there could be no politicking on the nation's defense program. There must be unity, he said, if the welfare of the nation is to be served.

Defense Becoming A Football

Then, he went on to say how the defense of the nation was much improved during the first five years of his administration. The political innuendo of that statement is not even subtle but it still was not as much of a conflict with his "no politicking" statements as were the words of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams. Speaking the same night but in Minneapolis, Adams claimed that the Democrats have been "politicking with national defense." And from what can be gathered out of the tricky statements of Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, the President knew what Adams was going to say. This kind of double talk certainly contributes nothing to a badly needed defense program. It would seem that Republicans are attempting to turn the defense issue into a political matter in order to have something for which they can attack the Democrats.

However, such maneuvering has a habit of backfiring when you least expect it and Eisenhower, Adams, Hagerty and Co. are likely to find out that the American public is not as naive as they think it to be. There is now considerable thought that the Russian's Sputnik coup might backfire in more ways than one. While that event may turn out to be just the tonic the U.S. needed, it could also create quite a rift inside the Communist party. It could become known as one of the greatest of Communist blunders and thus be a serious blow to Nikita Khrushchev.

Another somewhat paradoxical situation which doesn't seem to make much sense is the constant talk about tax reductions in Washington. Despite the fact that the 1958-59 federal budget has hit record-peace-time proportions, there are still those, even the President, who talk of cutting taxes. Of course, the only way this could be accomplished is by a hike in the country's debt limit.

Tax Cut Talk Goes On

Such a hike will undoubtedly be made but it should not be for the purpose of any tax reductions. It could serve a useful purpose in permitting the government sufficient latitude in its financial operations when tax income lags temporarily behind expenditures. But this is a matter of temporary financing, not permanent. It seems most illogical to talk about tax reductions, despite the popularity of the subject, when defense needs have so obviously skyrocketed and the cost of everything has constantly gone up. And this kind of talk is heard simultaneously with reports of organized efforts in Congress to stop government spending in certain areas.

There are just a world of things that don't make sense, any way you look at them. One congressman has proposed a bill calling for a national federally-sponsored lottery, claiming the gamble would bring in Uncle Sam's ill about $10 billion a year. The fantastic part of it is that he is probably three-fourths right. A hike in taxes would bring screams of indignation but a world of people would dig up a buck here and there every week to buy a lottery ticket that, for all practical purposes, would be just as worthless as a tax receipt.

DREW PEARSON

Matt Neely, Old School Crusader

WASHINGTON — In the winter of 1956 during the height of the battle over the natural gas bill I got a phone call from Sen. Matt Neely, who was laid to rest in West Virginia yesterday after 36 years in Congress.

"Drew," he said, "I've just read what you've written about the influence peddlers and the gas bill. Keep it up. But you don't know the half of it. You just don't know what's happening. Is your phone tapped?"

I told the senator that my phone was tapped by so many people that I sold commercials on it, but I arranged to meet him 15 minutes later at the F Street entrance of the Willard Hotel, and drove him to the Capitol.

En route he told me how Louey Johnson, former secretary of defense and a big Democratic wheel in West Virginia, had urged that he change his position in opposition to the gas bill and vote for it. Johnson promised a contribution of $5,000 to the campaign of Congressman Bob Molloy in his race for governor of West Virginia.

"I love that boy," said Neely. "I'd do anything in the world to make him governor of West Virginia—but not that."

I couldn't help but remember this as I read the tributes to 33-year-old Matt Neely, who he had pioneered the first mine safety bill, crusaded against Senate windbags, cleaned up crime in the District of Columbia, worked so patiently to make the nation's capital a model city; how he could quote from almost every chapter of the Bible; how intensely loyal he was to West Virginia; and how he was the first man to urge that the government spend a billion dollars to fight cancer.

Ironically, it was cancer that sent him to his grave. And when he was lowered into the grave,

Matt's loyalty was fulfilled. His coffin was made in West Virginia.

RAYBURN AND NEELY

This observer, however, will always remember Matt Neely for his explosive wrath against the lobbying attempts of big business, for his record as a crusading, uncompromising battler against economic injustice even before anyone ever heard of the New Deal. His were the days when some mighty voices were heard in the Senate—those of George Norris of Nebraska, Tom Walsh and Burt Wheeler of Montana, Hiram Johnson of California, Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, Bob La Follette of Wisconsin, Charlie McNary of Oregon—battling against those who sought to write laws through economic power.

Sometimes in these latter years, as Matt Neely neared the end of the road, his voice seemed very much alone.

Another Democrat came to Congress in the same year that West Virginia first sent Matt Neely to Washington—A young congressman from Texas named Sam Rayburn. That was 1913, one year before the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand in the Balkan city of Sarajevo was to touch off the bloodiest war so far in history. Neely and Rayburn served for many years together.

Came the New Deal and Sam became a New Dealer, sponsored some of its most important legislation. But while Matt Neely was turning a deaf ear to political contributions to influence his vote on the gas bill, Speaker Rayburn was promoting political contributions to help congressmen who would vote for the gas bill.

It seems like a long time since Rayburn and Neely served together in the House of Representatives. (Copyright, 1958, By Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

DORIS FLESON

Adams' Speech In Contrast To Ike's

WASHINGTON — Politicians do not create the issues of a campaign — they only ride them.

Some politicians have a greater gift for the jugular vein than others, some are more astute, some more ruthless. While their chosen techniques often indicate the man, few are able to obscure a real issue.

It does not, therefore, matter substantially that in the kick-off of the Republican congressional campaign, President Eisenhower kept to the high road and his principal aide, Sherman Adams, took a worm's-eye view of history. The President ignored the economic recession and Soviet achievements in missiles and outer space; Adams catalogued a purplish array of Democratic sins, including the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

But the public is aroused by the Soviet conquest of outer space with all its implications and is hurting from the business downturn. These are the issues of 1958 which will confront all members of the House and the one-third of the Senate this fall.

Significantly, the ablest Republican politician operating today — Vice-President Richard M. Nixon — made a less colorful but far more practical speech. The vice-president urged maximum federal aid, not only to avoid recession but to insure the country's continued expansion and prosperity.

He also took accurate aim at the conservative sources of Republican campaign funds by invoking what would be for them the dire vision of a New Deal run by New Dealers determined to make it work. The vice-president glibbed, too, at the Democratic division on civil rights, a potent lure to the Negro vote.

The important aspect of the Adams speech is that he has again called attention to the potent semi-hidden issue of the campaign, the one which will be argued by word of mouth rather than in formal attack. It is whether President Eisenhower today, after three serious illnesses, is really running the people who are running the government.

Adams was completely in character, in his contribution at Minneapolis, he told the politicians nothing about himself that they had not already learned. What he said was utterly unimaginable coming from President Eisenhower, and it was said in cold blood without any real provocation.

It is Adams notably who commands the day-by-day operations of the White House with their profound influence upon the lives of all Americans. His occasional bitter speeches are only the piece of the iceberg that is floating out of the water. As with the iceberg, the potentially dangerous part is submerged, protected from accountability by the doctrine of separation of powers which he pleads whenever Congress questions his role.

The President will, of course, pay to an undetermined degree for the irritation members of Congress feel when Adams jabs at them. They can reach the President through legislation and they will.

BOB CONSIDINE

Indians, Books And Hamburger

NEW YORK — Ella Logan, a gifted woman with strong feelings about justice, was delighted by the attack those Carolina Indians made on the Ku Kluxers, sending the hate merchants scampering in all directions, nightbeats flying.

"Clucks like those Kluxers always like to say, about people they don't like 'Why don't you go back to Africa, or Israel, or Rome?'" the singer told us. "But what can they say to those Indians?"

Too old to work? Then go to work for the Panther Co., of 840 North Main street, Fort Worth, Tex. You don't even have to know a panther, or sell one. It's one of the world's largest manufacturers of cold-process asphalt roofing compounds, and it does on hiring some of the most neglected Americans of them all — our senior citizens.

Panther will hire but doesn't encourage men under 45. It has 290 salesmen, and others, between the ages of 60 and 80. One of the star salesmen is W. R. Southworth of Bremerton, Wash., a retired gal-fer who has earned about $50,000 working for Panther over the past ten years. He's 77.

Stamp collecting is the No. 1 hobby of the nation's youngsters, the American Hobby Federation declares after poking a quivering nose into 3,180 hobby and recreation clubs with a membership of 175,000. Dolls (toy dolls, that is) rates second. Match boxes rate ninth, we are relieved to report.

As for food preferences, the moppets cast a caterwauling vote for hamburger. Scattered returns rated the remaining nine this way: chicken, lamb stew, pot roast, frankfurters, roast beef, ham, turkey, pork, steak.

Genuinely alarming, I'd say. Ford Frick and others will be concerned to read that the boys when questioned about their five favorite sports, listed them in this order: basketball, football, swimming, ice skating and — last — baseball. The girls didn't even give baseball a tumble.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

Small Dog With A Big Snore

By HAL HASSELBACH
Star Staff Writer

With a set of seven-year-old twins to look after, Mrs. John Forman can use some help enforcing a few house rules on discipline.

But her help comes from that part of the family not usually associated with assistance, the family pet. Bugs is different. He knows what is allowed and what is taboo.

For instance, running in the hallway of the Forman home at 3920 Dunn is a breach of discipline. When these energetic boys, Rusty and Dusty, are caught in this misdemeanor, Bugs brings them back into line with a nip on the seat.

Sounds like a big mean dog. Not hardly. There are three sizes of Boston terriers, small, medium and over 15 inches. Twelve-pound Bugs belongs in the small class.

Strangers at the Forman door are announced by Bugs and in some instances they are held at bay until one of the Formans passes on the visitor.

These are several of the ways Bugs earns his keep. For compensation Bugs asks few favors.

He considers an offering of cheese or carrots a prime delicacy. Bugs prefers "human food" to dog food. Mrs. Forman compromises on this point giving him table scraps mixed with his dog food rations.

An occasional bone is much appreciated. On those occasions he takes the prize into the living room and places it under a couch and stands guard over it with utmost attention if he is watched. However, if he thinks he can get away with it, he tries to bury his food.

One occasion he succeeded. He buried his bone in one of the overstuffed chairs in the Forman living room. Now the Formans pay closer attention to what Bugs does with his bones so he has to be content to hide them under furniture or, if it is a very special bone, in a shoe in Mrs. Forman's closet.

... he helps to keep the twins in line ...

Obviously Bugs is a house dog. Being a house dog he decided the place for him to sleep is in the house in a bedroom in a bed. And since he and Mrs. Forman work together most of the time, Bugs early in his tenure decided the place to sleep was at her feet.

This arrangement would not be too bad but for one thing. Bugs SNORES! It is not a little Boston Terrier-size snore. Bugs snores a St. Bernard-size snore. If she cannot beat Bugs to sleep, her only defense is to turn on the radio loud enough to drown out Bugs who is often competing for snoring honors with Capt. Forman.

In the contest for sleep, Mrs. Forman can, as a last resort, gain the advantage by making one of Bugs' eccentricities go against him. He will not go to bed without a ragged neck scarf, his favorite toy. When worse comes to worst, Mrs. Forman can hide the scarf which would apparently keep Bugs up for hours.

With all the characteristics described, it is no wonder the Formans end any discussion of Bugs with the observation that keeping Bugs is like having another tiny child around the house.

MARQUIS CHILDS

GOP Answer: Fear Demos, Not Russia!

WASHINGTON — Republican orators around the country, working hard with statistics and quotations supplied by the Republican National Committee, were out to prove Monday night that the blame for the lag in the development of missiles rests squarely on Harry S. Truman.

The same figures and the same quotations appeared in most of the speeches released in advance. And the theme, which will be heard again and again and again as the congressional campaign approaches, is that the Eisenhower administration has done everything possible to make up for the delay and indifference of the Truman administration.

In short, on the perilous issue of the nation's security we seem likely to get this fall an old-fashioned pot and kettle contest as to which is the blacker. It is not a prospect that holds out any conspicuous hope for unity on what must be done to catch up with Soviet Russia's lead.

The figures used in a number of the speeches delivered on the fifth anniversary of the President's first inauguration were intended, as Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks put it at a Republican fundraising dinner in Tulsa, Okla., to "curl your hair." From 1943 through 1952, $3,500,000 was spent on long-range ballistic missiles, while from 1953 through 1958 more than $3.5 billion was spent.

The quotation used by speaker after speaker is by Wehrner Von Braun, missile authority who directed the development of the Army's Jupiter missile at the Redstone arsenal in Alabama. Von Braun is quoted as having said in answer to a question as to why Russia leads in outer space:

"The main reason is that the United States had no ballistic missile program worth mentioning between 1945 and 1951. These six years, during which the Russians obviously laid the groundwork for their large rocket program, are irretrievably lost."

But with the zeal that might have been expected from the man closest to the President and perhaps the most dedicated worker in the administration, Sherman Adams goes farther than the others. In his dinner speech at Minneapolis he took the whole litany of denunciation, blaming the Democrats for the "military catastrophe" of Pearl Harbor, "the Red invasion of Korea," "the plight of our defenses when the invasion began," "the handcuffs put upon our conduct of that war," the "tragic loss of China" and the "surrender of positions of freedom throughout the world."

In other words, the assistant to the President blames the Democrats for everything that happened while the Democratic party was

NATO Sounds Death Knell For Polish Plan On Atom Weapons

PARIS (INS) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization Wednesday sounded the death knell for Poland's plan to strip central Europe of missiles and nuclear weapons.

It was disclosed that after debate by NATO's permanent council, all 15 members were "broadly in agreement" that the Soviet-backed Polish plan was unacceptable.

At the same time French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau declared publicly what NATO diplomats have been saying privately for some time: The plan is a Communist maneuver to get American troops out of Europe.

Harmony

Pineau, who often says things Americans do not like, was in complete harmony with many Americans when he declared:

"We cannot give the Soviets the means for disintegrating the defensive system of NATO, discouraging the American presence in Europe and achieving progressive neutralization of Europe which would permit resumption of a system of chain subversion."

Pineau added that the Polish proposal would deny central Europeans the right to shoot missiles without sheltering them from a missile assault.

A NATO spokesman emphasized: "The ultimate objective of all these Soviet maneuvers is to force American troops from Europe." American military authorities told diplomats that the U.S. Seventh Army in Germany would be unable to stand against "Russian hordes" if nuclear weapons were forbidden.

The last doubt about NATO's attitude toward the Polish plan was removed in Copenhagen Tuesday when Danish Premier H.C. Hansen took the position, similar to that of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, that it was unacceptable but the West might be able to formulate an alternative.

Pineau, in his speech Wednesday, also suggested an alternative might be possible.

The NATO discussion did not constitute a flat rejection but showed all members were opposed.

Mrs. Manke Rites Set For Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha E. Manke, 66, of Rt. 1, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at Umbergers with the Rev. Russell Piper officiating. She died Wednesday.

Mrs. Manke lived all her life in and near the Lincoln area. She was a member of Pioneer's Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are her husband, Herman; daughter, Mrs. Ralph Thomas of Wheat Ridge, Colo.; sisters, Mrs. Clatie Ryan and Mrs. George Jacobs, both of Lincoln; Mrs. George Siegfried of Traer, Kan.; brothers, Robert Leudtke of Lincoln and Clarence Leudtke of Los Angeles; and three grandchildren.

Way Pleads Guilty To Charge Of Fondling

Alfred E. Way of 3117 No. 40th Wednesday pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court to a charge of "fondling a minor."

Judge Harry Spencer deferred sentencing pending a report by the adult probation office. Way, 28, is charged with fondling an 8-year-old Lincoln girl Jan. 19th.

2-Year-Old Records Error Results In Innocent Verdict

A records error made 26 months ago resulted in a 24-year-old Lincoln man being found innocent Wednesday in Municipal Court of driving on a suspended driver's license.

Judge Richard O. Johnson found Charles W. Waters of 2801 No. 26th innocent of the charge after testimony had brought out that a no-registration conviction against Waters had mistakenly been recorded by the State Motor Vehicle Division as a negligent driving conviction.

The no registration charge does not carry any points against a driver's license but the negligent charge carries three points. The clerical error, made in November, 1955, resulted in a notice being sent Waters that he had accumulated 14 points—two over the maximum—when in reality he had only 11.

The error was discovered by Waters' attorney, Leonard Dunker, in checking of Municipal Court records against state records.

Waters, under the impression that his license was suspended, had paid a $100 fine on a suspended license charge last August. This earlier conviction and fine will stand unless Waters initiates action to cancel the conviction, officials said.

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

Modern progress seldom moves more than a hop, skip and jump off the Mexican highway. I changed a flat tire on the great freeway between Acapulco and Mexico City and drove to a nearby village to have it fixed.

The tire changer was a ragged Indian in one of those backyard mechanic shops. He pried the tire off with his bare feet. "No wonder it is flat! There is no tube."

"It is automatic," I said. "No tube is necessary." He gave me a superior look. "It is well known that tires must have tubes."

The telephone is still a mechanical marvel. The girl who handles the telephone is a genius. Too proud and haughty to engage in more than bare essentials. For this reason, it is difficult to get a call through—I have waited two hours now to get Mexico City some 50 miles away.

My hotel operator flings the number to the local operator. She flings it like a duchess throwing a coin to a beggar.

The local operator will hand it on disdainfully to the Mexico operator.

She will pass it with fingertips to the Mexico hotel operator.

"The Mexico City telephone does not answer, Senor."

"That seems impossible. It is a large, luxury hotel. They have three telephonists and an elegant switchboard."

"It is out of order. It does not function."

"When will it function?"

"Who knows? Possibly not until tomorrow."

This morning I rang for the maid. I should know better, I should indeed.

"There seems to be no hot water."

The maid looked in the shower. Water out of a shower is God's mystery to Mexico. How and why it gets there is not to be questioned.

"It is not very cold," she said testing it with her hand.

"Nevertheless, it is not hot. When will it get hot?"

This is like asking, "When will it stop raining?" But the maid is accustomed to us tourists.

"I will ask, Senor. I return immediately."

That was several hours ago. I caught a glimpse of her in the hallway. But she saw me, too, and ducked around the corner.

No smart tourist is going to corner that pigeon with foolish questions.

60 Hurt In Blast

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A thundering explosion shattered a line of chemical tank cars moving through a suburban railroad yard Wednesday, injuring at least 60 persons.

The blast ripped a crater 40 feet deep and 150 feet across. Authorities said damage could run to a million dollars.

The area was sparsely settled.

Mid-Continent Hail Says '57 'Very Good'

Mid-Continent Hail Insurance Co., 2424 So. 19th, reported a "very good" year for 1957 with losses during the year amounting to only 45 per cent of premium income.

Premium income for the firm exceeded a quarter of a million dollars last year, according to B. L. Knudson, who was re-elected president at the annual meeting.

Other officers and directors re-elected are: C. Fullagar, vice president; G. E. Knudson, secretary; Clyde Wolfe of Lincoln and H. C. McCalla of North Platte, directors.

Kansas City Mayor To Speak In McCook

McCook, Neb. (AP)—H. Roe Bartle, mayor of Kansas City, Mo., will be the banquet speaker June 11 at the annual banquet of the Nebraska Stock Growers Assn.

Other features of the convention will be the state Miss Universe contest June 12, and election of officers June 13. The convention will wind up June 14.

'Gospel Only Preventive To WW III'

... Bishop Watts Says

Bishop H. Bascom Watts told a banquet crowd of 225 Methodists Wednesday night that "the only way to prevent a third world war is to loose the gospel on the world."

Bishop Watts appeared as the main speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Methodist City Union at Trinity Methodist Church.

Reporting on his recent trip around the world, he said there are many turbulent areas in the East and Middle East that might easily flare into an open war. Mohammedan-dominated Jordan, he warned, is one of the most restless countries he visited.

Religions all over the world are flourishing, he said. Even Shintoism, thought dead after the Japanese emperor was dethroned following World War II, is coming back strong.

He reviewed the progress of Christian missionaries in the Far East, found progress, but, he cautioned, all the religions of the East are challenging Christianity and the next five years are most critical from a missionary standpoint.

A double quartet composed of members of several Methodist churches led by Rev. Bruce Gideon entertained before the main speech.

Former City Pastor Author Of Book On Church, Children

Dr. Charles F. Kemp, former pastor of First Christian Church in Lincoln, is the author of a new book, "The Church: The Gifted and the Retarded Child."

The book is a significant contribution in both religious education and pastoral psychology, according to the publishers, Bethany Press of St. Louis Mo.

The book is one of the first relating applied psychology in religion and guidance to the exceptional mind of either above or below average intelligence, a portion of the population often neglected, the publishers said.

From his experience and research, Dr. Kemp makes concrete suggestions as to what the church can do for children of exceptional minds.

Committee On Crippled Picks Laase Again

Dr. Leroy T. Laase was re-elected Wednesday as chairman of the Lancaster County Committee for Crippled Children and Adults.

Also re-elected were Miss Virginia Dolan and Ivan Hoig, vice-chairmen; Dr. Lucile Cyprean, secretary, and Robert Gessner, treasurer.

The officers will serve until next October when the first election will be held under the provisions of a new set of by-laws recently adopted by the local group.

One, two and three-year terms for the present 42 directors also were set under the bylaws which provide that beginning next October the terms of one-third of the organization will expire each year.

Discussed at the meeting were plans for the coming Easter Seal campaign, and the organization approved a grant of $100 to the governor's committee for the employment of handicapped.

Dear Abby...

Move Back Anniversary

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You see, my husband and I had to get married. I know we're not the only ones that happened to, but my problem is that we have a darling daughter. When she gets old enough she will figure out that she will be six years old in June and we will have been married only six years in January. How can we explain this to her?

Worried
DEAR WORRIED: It's easier to soft peddle your anniversary date than it would be to soft peddle her birthday. The less said about this, the better, but if you MUST make an issue of it, pick yourself a nice date in September and celebrate your "anniversary."

DEAR ABBY: I got attracted to a single man but I am a married woman, he told me to leave my husband and get a divorce because he doesn't care to have anything to do with married women. I told him that my husband could give me everything but love and I had been living without love for twelve years before I met him and didn't want to lose everything on the chance of ending up alone. What I mean to say is this man who I love don't say if he will marry me or not after I leave my husband, but he is all for me leaving my husband. Should I leave him on speculation?

Wondering
DEAR WONDERING: Stick with your husband and tell the single man to get lost.

DEAR ABBY: I am a fellow who is 22 years old. I can't help it—I blush all the time. What should I do?

Blushing
DEAR BLUSHING: Think of something else!

DEAR ABBY: We recently built a home. It was a lifetime dream come true. We live in a lovely neighborhood, but one thing spoils it for us. A family a few doors down has a dog for their little boy. They keep this dog tied up and the poor little thing suffers such abuse from that little boy, it breaks my heart when I see him from my kitchen window. The boy tortures him with stones and pulls the rope tight around his neck. The dog cries and cries. I don't like to stick my nose into my neighbor's business, but maybe if you print this I will clip it out and slip it into their mailbox.

A DISTURBED NEIGHBOR
DEAR DISTURBED: First tell his parents—and if the little boy continues to abuse his pet—call your Humane Society.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROSIE: Don't go any further than you can walk home.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Bennet Man, 71, Given $500 Fine On Morals Count

A 71-year-old Bennet, Neb., man Wednesday was fined $500 on a morals charge in Lancaster County Court in connection with his actions with a 14-year-old girl. John Hudson pleaded guilty to "contributing to the delinquency of a minor" and was fined the maximum amount allowed by law by Judge Herbert Ronin. Chief Deputy County Attorney Dale Fahrbruch told the court that Hudson had had sexual relations with the girl involved.

Mrs. Irma Kendle Services Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Irma Kendle 52, of 3327 Holdrege, will be 2 p.m. Friday at Wadlows. Mrs. Kendle died Wednesday.

A native of Shelton, Mrs. Kendle had been a resident of Lincoln since 1927. She was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church and 307 Starcraft Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are her husband, Russell; sons, Russell J. of North Platte and Robert H. of Lincoln; a sister, Mrs. Jim Lane of Grand Island; a brother, E. L. Kithcart of Scottsbluff, and two grandchildren.

McElroy To Give Congress Proposal For Pentagon Shakeup

Thursday, January 23, 1958 THE LINCOLN STAR 9

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic leader, said Wednesday that Secretary of Defense, McElroy hopes to have a Pentagon reorganization proposal ready for Congressional action at this session.

McElroy testified at a closed-door session of the Senate preparedness subcommittee considering

Board Ponders ADC Change

The state Board of Control Monday will consider increasing the maximum of assets which an individual may have and still qualify for aid to dependent children payments.

Mrs. Catherine Martin, state Board of Control chairman, said the decision was made at a meeting of the board and its advisory committee Wednesday.

He said assets of persons currently receiving ADC payments must not exceed $300 for the first child, and $600 for a family unit.

Under the proposal, assets of individuals receiving ADC support for one child could not exceed $500, and $1,000 for a family unit.

Mrs. Martin said the committee also discussed the effectiveness of three measures affecting state and county spending and passed by the last session of the legislature:

LB 167, which increased maximum old age assistance payments from $65 to $70 per month; LB 498, which boosted maximum blind assistance payments from $80 to $100 per month, and LB 171, which established a supplemental medical program for old-age assistance.

Advisory committee members include Russell Brehm, Lincoln; A. B. Holmberg, Shelton; Leonard Bergman, Omaha; Erik Riisness, Creighton, and Leslie A. Stull, Alliance.

Waldo Seeks Re-Election

Willard H. Waldo, 45-year-old De Witt farmer and livestock breeder, filed with the secretary of state late Wednesday for nomination to a second term in the state legislature from the 21st District.

The district takes in Gage County only.

In a statement, Waldo said he is deeply interested in equitable taxation.

"Obviously there have been some abuses and these abuses should be corrected, but at the same time we should not allow the pendulum to swing the other way to the point of passing radical legislation," he said.

"It is true that I voted for the sales tax in the last legislature but whether or not I should vote for an additional tax would depend upon the circumstances, and would only be decided after carefully reading the proposed legislation."

"Taxation is a problem that cannot be solved quickly, bearing in mind that taxes are always a burden, and they become more so when there is a cutback in the economic life of the state. All of these things will have to be considered."

ing missiles, satellites and other defense developments.

Johnson and others have criticized the large numbers of committees, commissions and officials in the Defense Department involved in decisions on major programs.

Revision Of Laws
Johnson's statement indicated that some revision of present laws, including the National Security Act, was planned by the administration. This 1947 act, plus later amendments, gave the Air Force equal status with the Army and Navy under a single Department of Defense.

It also set up the Joint Chiefs of Staff, formed by top officers of the various services and a non-voting chairman.

"I was impressed by the secretary's candor, his determination to seek out facts before taking a position, and his willingness to assume his due responsibilities once a position is taken," Johnson said.

The senator said McElroy supplied the Senate group with "14 steps that have been taken to speed up important programs since Sputnik I was placed in orbit and this inquiry began."

The steps:
"1. Removal of overtime limitations on top priority programs.
"2. Restoration of basic research programs to former level.
"3. Army authorized to proceed with launching a satellite by use of a Jupiter-C test vehicle. Both Vanguard and Jupiter satellite programs assigned top priority.
"4. Authorized production and operational deployment of both Thor and Jupiter missile systems.
"5. Acceleration of the Atlas program.
"6. Acceleration of fleet ballistic missile weapons system (Polaris) in fiscal year 1958 supplemental appropriation.
"7. Army authorized to proceed immediately with development of a solid propellant missile as a replacement for the Redstone.
"8. Establishment of the office of the director of guided missiles.

"9. Establishment of the Advance Research Project Agency.
"10. Increased anti-submarine capability in fiscal year 1959 budget; also acceleration of research and development of anti-submarine warfare.
"11. Strategic Air Command alert, dispersal, and relocation of tankers to northern bases.
"12. Air Force authorized to proceed with program to install an early warning system for detection of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"13. Definition of Army and Air Force responsibilities and re-emphasizing urgency for development of defense against the ICBM. Top priority confirmed for anti-ICBM and military satellite projects.
"14. Appointment of full time special assistant and group of consultants to advise the secretary as to the organization of the Defense Department."

Coffee For NAA Committee

When Mrs. Lyle Holland, chairman of the Nebraska Art Association membership committee for 1958, entertained at coffee on Wednesday morning, the membership campaign for the current season was launched. Included in the guest list for the morning affair were members of the committee with whom Mrs. Holland and her co-chairmen, Mrs. Richard Smith and Mrs. Warner Rhoads, discussed the annual spring Art Association exhibit to be held during the month of March.

Members of the committee not in the picture include Mrs. Corwin Moore, Mrs. T. J. Thompson, Mrs. Houghton Furr, Mrs. Stanley Haight, Mrs. Kenneth McGinnis, Mrs. E. S. Maness, Mrs. Roland Mueller, Mrs. LaVern Pfeifer, Mrs. Glenn Yaussi, Mrs. Harry W. Meginnis, Jr.,

League To Open Drive

With a conviction that self-government is not only worth talking about, it also is worth doing something about, the League of Women Voters of Lincoln will open on Sunday, Jan. 26, a fund drive for contributions to help finance the league's non-partisan community projects.

Presenting a contribution to Mrs. James Shelley, the league's finance chairman, is Warren Johnson.

With the aim of keeping the public informed on governmental policies, voting registration and procedures, and providing factual information on issues, the league recently has compiled and distributed a survey of local government, "Let's Look At Lincoln," and "The League Looks At The Administration Of State Institutions."

Currently studying conservation and taxes, league members soon will make available a survey of Lincoln's parks.

TOWN TALK

THE petite, gracious and SO pretty Roberta Peters appeared as perhaps the brightest star on Lincoln's horizon this week—The talented Miss Peters (Mrs. Bertram Fields in private life) was presented as the Lincoln Symphony's guest artist on Tuesday evening.

But as thrilling as the concert was, the real pleasure came later when Miss Peters, Mr. Fields, the accompanist, George Trovillo; and the flutist, James Gemus, joined Mr. and Mrs. Arnett Folsom and members of the Symphony board for an informal after-concert party at the E. C. Folsom residence, 1305 J St. Miss Peters had changed from her red velvet gown to an attractive, full-skirted frock of sapphire blue (which matched her eyes) touched with dashes of darker blue in a print pattern.

Miss Peters spoke of many things to many people—her training—she began at 13 years old but, she said, the age was dependent upon the temperament of the person. She spoke of Lincoln, of the warm audience, of the bouquet of red roses she had received—but perhaps her favorite topic was her young son, Paul Adam Fields, who is just nine and one-half months old. And she is anxious to return to him after her three weeks concert tour.

The refreshment table in the dining room was not for Miss Peters and her party—A concert is strenuous as Mr. and Mrs. Folsom well knew. In the library Miss Peters, Mr. Fields, the accompanist and the flutist were served a very late supper which no doubt will be remembered by the artist as an extremely hospitable and considerate courtesy.

SPEAKING of Miss Peters brings to mind the Metropolitan Opera Co. where the lady is a recognized star—it also brings to mind the book "Opera Caravan", published just last year, which is well worth your reading. The author's name has an old-fashioned flavor — Quintance Eaton.

If Miss Peters perchance has had the time to turn the pages

SUBURBIA

EASTBOROUGH

We'll begin with what we know about the younger generation in Eastborough since it has news of particular interest this morning. On Thursday, Jan. 23, television viewers in Eastborough will want to turn their dial to channel 10 at 6:30 o'clock to enjoy a folk song presentation by a group of Camp Fire Girls who are fifth graders at Meadow Lane School. Mrs. Robert Regler, Camp Fire leader, will accompany the girls who include Linda Caylor, Elizabeth Hamilton, Rory Hoffman, Ellen Lodahl, Sybil Marty, Janice Potts, Terri Regler, Diane Robison, Susan Schulz, Connie Szymskie, Judy Thompson, Jan Tiede, Kathy Troscheiser, Jane Krebs, Vali Sildmets and Barbara Bates.

Mention of the Camp Fire Girls reminds us that they met on Monday afternoon in the Robert Regler home where Mrs. Regler was hostess, and leader of the business discussion. Miss Rita Lehr, Camp Fire field director, was on hand to assist the girls with ceremonial songs.

As we made our verbal trek about the neighborhood we also learned of a recent "Crew party" which was an event held in the home of Capt. and Mrs. H. O. Tiede. The host and hostess entertained at an informal dinner party and included among their guests were Lt. Jack Healey and Miss Sue Delehant, Lt. and Mrs. Einar Samuelson, Sgt. and Mrs.

David Snow, Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas Burkett and A-lc and Mrs. John E. Clary.

Then heard that Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prior and their four sons, Ladd, Randall, Kent and Mark recently entertained a guest at their home — Mrs. Prior's mother, Mrs. Lula Bourland of Ada, Okla. Mrs. Bourland returned home last week end following a six weeks visit with the Prior family.

To compliment her house guest Mrs. Prior was hostess at a coffee on Friday morning and guests for the affair were Mrs. Ralph Wells, Mrs. Wallace Reed, Mrs. Gordon Culver and Mrs. Robert Wilde.

An eight-year-old feminine two-some in Eastborough had a gala afternoon on Saturday when they decided it was time to learn the skill of embroidering. With Mrs. Jesse Haith's assistance the two young ladies, Barbara Haith and Marilyn Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Welch, sat patiently all afternoon working industriously on their latest project and nibbling on cookies and such which their hostess had provided for them.

Mention of the Jesse Haith family brings to mind the recent activity in their home centered around courtesies for out-of-town guests. It was on Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Haith were host and hostess to relatives from Omaha and the festivities included a turkey dinner

Tea Honors Polio Fund Colonels

Honored at a tea on Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Cornhusker were the "colonels" from southeastern Nebraska who will direct the 1958 Mothers March on Polio, to be held throughout the nation on Thursday, Jan. 30.

Included among the colonels, who have completed plans for the block-by-block campaign to raise funds for the national polio foundation, were (seated, from the left) Mrs. James Burden, Mrs. Alexander Bauer and Mrs.

Jacob Reifschneider, all of Lincoln.
Standing are Mrs. John Bauer, chairman for the Mothers March in Beatrice; Mrs. George Heggen Jr., and Mrs. Elmer Birk-mann, colonels for Lincoln; Mrs. Burton Folsom and Mrs. Richard Kosman, co-chairmen for the Lincoln campaign; and Mrs. Wesley Strong, chairman for the March in Syracuse.

THIS HOME SCENE OF TRAGEDY

This Beatrice home was the scene of tragedy when Sherman Williams, 41-year-old shoe repair shop operator, apparently shot his wife and three of his four children. A fourth child,

Williams' 14-year-old son Sherman, escaped after struggling to wrest a pistol from his father's hand after the others had been shot but before Williams went to the basement and took his

2 Youths Get 1-Year Terms For Burglary

Two Lincoln youths involved in burglaries in Raymond, Davey and Lincoln on Jan. 11th were each sentenced to one-year Men's Reformatory terms Wednesday by Lancaster District Judge Harry Spencer.

Herbert Waline, 18, of 1735 N. and Robert Lee Pruitt, 20, of 119 So. 15th, drew the prison terms for their part in the burglaries. A third youth involved, Donald Fank, 19, formerly stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base, was placed on three-year probation by Judge Spencer. All three had pleaded guilty.

Judge Spencer noted that Waline and Pruitt both had "bad records" and that Waline had been placed on probation previously on a fondling a minor charge. The judge said Fank, whose home is in Waukegan, Ill., had a bad record in the service—he has recently been discharged—but his civilian record was not as bad as those of Waline or Pruitt.

Davey Incident Charged

All three youths were charged with the burglary of the Davey Tavern where a quantity of cigarettes reportedly was stolen. They were also involved in break-ins at the Raymond Tavern — where about 20 cases of beer were stolen — and at the Lantz Donut & Baking Co. at 855 No. 27th, where about 60 cents worth of cookies were taken.

A fourth youth involved, Larry Davis, 17, of 1336 D, has already been committed to the Kearney Boys Training School as a result of the incidents. He was on parole from the school at the time the burglaries occurred.

A fifth boy, Charles Sundling, 17, of 944 No. 25th, also charged with the Davey burglary, has not yet been sentenced.

Printers Reach Tentative Accord In St. Paul Strike

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Striking printers reached tentative agreement with the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch on a 26-month contract Wednesday.

Negotiations were resumed, meanwhile, between management and two other striking unions. The newspapers, under the same ownership have not published since the strike started Dec. 17.

Terms of Wednesday's settlement were not disclosed pending a final vote by members of the International Typographical Union (ITU), Local 30.

The announcement by Charles Johnson, state labor conciliator, followed an all-night session.

Company negotiators went back into session at 2 p.m. with representatives of mailing room workers, also affiliated with the ITU. Sitting in as observers were negotiators for the American Newspaper Guild local, also on strike.

Navy Cuts Down Search For Plane Lincolnite Aboard

HONOLULU—The Navy Wednesday withdrew most of the ships searching for a crashed C97 Military Air Transport cargo plane on which a Lincoln man was a member of the crew as hope waned for finding any survivors.

Identified as navigator of the plane was Lt. Jerry Flaherty, 23, son of Mrs. Leo F. Flaherty of 4037 D.

Mrs. Flaherty was notified that her son was among the seven missing crewmen on the plane, and the Navy confirmed that debris found 277 miles southwest of here was wreckage from the plane.

COMMITTEE FORMED TO SET UP ADDED TEENAGER RECREATION

Thirty-six Lincoln civic and social leaders formed a committee Wednesday to set up a club to provide further recreational facilities for teenagers and young adults who do not participate in the regular activities of their schools or the YMCA-YWCA program.

James C. Lewis, superintendent of city recreation, was named chairman of the group.

According to a resolution approved by the group, the committee's first duty is to co-ordinate volunteers and professional social workers interested in such a project with an eye to getting these activities underway as soon as possible.

Brief reports were heard from Ralph Beechner, co-ordinator of health and physical education for Lincoln schools; Judge Herbert A. Ronin of the County Court; Dr. John C. Thompson, director of health, physical education and safety for the Lincoln schools; Randall Sims, assistant director of the State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation; H. J. W. Koester, district supervisor of the Division of Rehabilitation, Lincoln, and Harold D. Lantze, principal of Everett Junior High School.

In attendance at the meeting, presided over by Beechner, were Mayor Bennett Martin and University of Nebraska, state, city and other local social workers and interested persons.

Mrs. Parshall Dies At Age 94

Mrs. Anna Parshall, 94, of 1147 Plum, a member of Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church and resident of Lincoln since 1911, died Wednesday.

Surviving are her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Forgy of Lebanon, Mo.; sons, Ed, James, Eugene and Fred, all of Lincoln; 11 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren.

Going to move soon? Be sure to notify the circulation department, giving both your old and new address.

How Dodgers Field Will Look

This photo-diagram, made Wednesday as engineers surveyed the floor of the Los Angeles Coliseum, shows how the Los Angeles Dodgers plan to fit a baseball diamond into the big bowl for the next two seasons. Shown are the short foul line,

250 to left and 300 to right, which have drawn criticism from National League pitchers. A 40-

foot-fence will be erected in front of the left field seats. (AP Wirephoto)

Gold's No. 1 Ties For Bowling Lead

Gold's No. 1 of the Sportsmen League rolled a 3,001 to tie for the leadership in the Men's City Bowling Tournament Tuesday night to create the first major shift in team standings since Sunday.

The Gold's team compiled a 2500 scratch and added a 441 handicap to gain the tie for first place. The Journal-Star No. 1 team had led since Sunday with a 288-2713 —3,001 aggregate.

In another change in the team division, Kaufman Jewelers of the Cornhusker No. 1 League moved into fifth place with a 2974. Lincoln Engineering Construction also made the top ten with a 2920. Kaufman's made a strong bid for the scratch leadership through nine frames, but fell short in the final frame and ended with 2665. The Mixed Up 5 is the scratch leader with a 2794.

Jerry Salber was the only bowler in singles competition to crack the top ten Tuesday. Salber posted a 624 to take over ninth. Bernie Kossek retained the leadership with a 680.

The doubles standings remained the same, with Al Steyer and Gene Solberg on top with a 1268 total.

Yank-Indian Trade Seems Much Closer

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankee-Cleveland baseball trade, involving pitcher Ray Narleski of the Indians, appeared closer to completion Wednesday than at any time since the rumors started flying several weeks ago.

The transaction would send Narleski, a righthanded pitcher, to New York in exchange for second baseman Bobby Richardson or third baseman Jerry Lumpe and a young pitcher, probably Jim Coates.

"We have been talking to Frank Lane and things ought to go in one direction or other this week-end," said Lee MacPhail, assistant to Yankee general manager George Weiss.

Lane, Weiss' opposite number with the Indians, will be here this weekend to attend the annual dinner of the New York Baseball Writers' Assn. Weiss and New York manager Casey Stengel also will be in town.

Lane reportedly has taken Narleski off the market insofar as clubs other than the Yankees are concerned. He recently offered Narleski to the Detroit Tigers for pitcher Frank Lary and infielder Billy Martin.

Narleski, a relief specialist, won 11 games and lost five last season. Richardson batted .256 in 97 games and Lumpe .340 in 40 games. Coates compiled a 14-11 record for Richmond and led the International League with six shutouts and 161 strikeouts.

Williams Career Ended?

BOSTON (AP)—The Traveler said Wednesday that Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams has two bone breaks in his right ankle, but a Boston Orthopedic specialist quickly denied the report.

The Traveler, in a front page story by baseball writer Bill Liston, said that the career of the 39-year-old outfielder is "in jeopardy" because of the injury.

Dr. Russell Sullivan said, however, that X-rays forwarded to him by Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore showed no fractures.

"Williams sprained his ankle this winter while fishing," Dr. Sullivan said. "It was in December, I think, or maybe November. When he was in Baltimore he had X-rays taken and asked to have them sent to me."

"I've looked at them and I've talked to Joe Cronin (Red Sox general manager). The X-rays are all right. I haven't treated him, understand. I haven't seen him since the shoulder injury several years ago. But the X-rays don't show any broken bones."

"And as for his career being endangered, that's a lot of nonsense."

Dr. Sullivan is the specialist who treated Williams after he suffered a shoulder separation in spring training in 1954.

Yank Team Invited To Russian Meet

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Wednesday that the Soviet Union has invited a U.S. track and field team to compete in a big international meet in Moscow, July 3-6.

The broadcast said that 300 top athletes would take part in the meet. The Russians said the high-light event would be the 5,000 meters for the Znamensky trophy. It did not indicate what other nations, if any, had been invited.

Moscow radio also said the Soviet Union will enter the European track and field championships in Stockholm, Aug. 19-24.

Parnassus Books Bassey, Moreno

LOS ANGELES (INS)—Matchmaker George Parnassus said Wednesday that Hogan (Kid) Bassey, world featherweight boxing champion from Nigeria, has accepted a $70,000 offer to defend his title against Ricardo (Pajarito) Moreno of Mexico in a 15-round bout at Los Angeles early in March.

Parnassus signed Moreno in Mexico City last week for $38,000.

The matchmaker said he plans a $20 top for tickets to the bout, which will be held at Wrigley Field.

Elkhorn Upset In Husker 8 Meet

WAHOO—Ceresco upset top-seeded Elkhorn 63-55 here Wednesday night to advance to finals of the Husker Eight conference tournament.

Ceresco will meet Valparaiso, which rallied in the second half to whip Millard, 66-54.

John Swanson led Ceresco in the upset of Elkhorn, the seventh-ranked Class C team, while dependable Ray Fiala hit 28 points to help Valparaiso overcome a 30-28 halftime deficit in beating Millard.

Students Help In Hiring Of ISC Mentor

... 'They Were So Persistent'

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&M College Wednesday did a complete turnabout and named Jim Myers of Iowa State as head football coach and athletic director.

"He's coming as soon as he can get out of the snow," President M. I. Harrington said in making the announcement.

He said Myers' salary will be $16,000 a year plus a rent-free house under a four-year contract which becomes effective Jan. 23.

Myers had been mentioned all day as the successor to Paul (Bear) Bryant, who resigned at the first of the year to return to Alabama, his alma mater.

The A&M board of directors last week had tabled a motion, 5-4, to hire Myers and tried to engage Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz. Myers heard about this move and at that time withdrew from consideration. Erdelatz then got out of the picture as fast as he had entered it.

Harrington said the board pledged unanimous support to Myers but during the afternoon four board members left, including supporters of Erdelatz for the job.

Two hours passed before Harrington made his announcement.

Undoubtedly responsible for helping change Myers' mind and that of the board of directors was the work of students organized by Gary Rollins from Houston, sports editor of the student newspaper, The Battalion. He masterminded an 80-foot telegram carrying 2,229 signatures which was sent to Myers asking him to reconsider.

With Cadet Col. John Hagler of Lagrange, Tex., Rollins traveled Sunday to Ames, Iowa, and they stayed with Myers until their return Wednesday morning.

Rollins had aid from All-America halfback John Crow, who said he telephoned board member Jack Finney of Greenville, Tex., and told him the boys wanted Myers.

Myers is a single-wing football coach and even Bryant said, when he went to Alabama, that his team coming up next year would be better for that formation.

This was the 51st day A&M had gone without a head football coach or athletic director, jobs held by the same man here.

The period was filled with embarrassing moments for the all-male college of 7,200 students. An outbreak of disagreement between board members and the all-faculty athletic council saw big-name coaches come and go.

"Myers is young, clean-cut and the kind of man I like to see as coach," Rollins said.

He said the athletic council had favored Myers and its members knew of his trip to Iowa.

Harrington said he asked Dr. James Hilton, president of Iowa State, for permission to talk to Myers before the job was officially offered. Permission was granted, he said, and Myers accepted.

At Ames Dr. Hilton said the Aggies' arrangement with Myers came as a complete surprise to him.

"The first word I heard about this came about 3 o'clock this afternoon when I received a call from Texas saying that the council had offered to give the job to Mr. Myers," Hilton said.

The Iowa State president said a few minutes later Myers informed him he was quitting to accept the position.

In Ames, Myers, 36, said he decided to accept A&M's offer because "they were so persistent."

He acknowledged that the telegram and visit of two Texas A&M students last weekend were partly responsible for getting him to change his mind.

"It's nice to be wanted," he said. "They have tremendous student support."

Myers said the "opportunity is better than it was." He added he thought the move was better for his family and his coaching staff.

He said Cyclone assistant coaches Russ Faulkinberry and Doug Bradley will accompany him to College Station. Also he said he will retain present Aggie assistants J. T. King and Willie Zapala. Myers said he will hire four other coaches.

"My relationship with Iowa State has been pleasant," he said. "The athletic council and school have been good to me."

Myers said he planned to leave for Texas as soon as he gets the furniture packed. He hopes to leave later this week.

Myers declined to say whether the Cyclone council's ultimatum last week had anything to do with his change of mind. The council had directed Myers to say whether he planned to stay or leave when the Aggies first started to court him.

The Iowa State athletic council appointing committee, which was appointed last week, now will begin seeking candidates for the vacancy.

First reports were that it was a student prank in retaliation for Myers' accepting the Texas A&M job of football coach and athletic director.

Myers said at that time: "I was a candidate for the Iowa State head job if Myers left. There were only two choices for me—stay at Iowa State as head coach or come to Nebraska to work with Bill Jennings."

Whether or not Pearce's move to Nebraska takes him out of the Iowa State picture remains to be seen.

ISC Helped To Pay For Students' Trip

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&M student pressure and leadership Wednesday was credited in part for the selection of Jim Myers as new head football coach and athletic director.

"I'd like to think our trip had something to do with it," said Gary Rollins of Houston, who was an organizer of a get-Myers campaign.

He and Cadet Col. John Hagler of Lagrange, Tex., returned early Wednesday after visiting Myers in Ames, Iowa.

"We talked with him for six hours and he finally said, 'What do you want?'" Rollins related. "I answered, 'We came up here for any answer but a no.'"

Rollins said Myers then agreed he would take the job provided A&M wanted him and things could be worked out with Iowa State officials.

Rollins said Hagler paid for the trip "But Iowa State paid some too."

"We checked in at the Iowa State student union and I gave my grandmother's Kansas City address because we didn't want anyone to know who we were," Rollins said.

"They asked who we represented and I told them Coach Myers."

"When we came down the next morning, I asked what we owed, and the woman at the desk said, 'It's been taken care of by the Iowa State athletic committee.' We hadn't even talked to Myers then."

The two Aggie cadets said college officials and board members knew of their plans.

Even though the two cadets were happy, they also were sad—each missed three final examinations, and they don't know if or when these can be made up.

KEEPING SCORE

With Al Beebe

Star Sports Staff Writer

Four district tournaments are slated for Lincoln this year preceding the State Basketball action, and from mid-season indications, Capital City fans should be in for some top-notch play.

Heading the list, of course, will be the AA tourney at Pershing Municipal Auditorium featuring the three Lincoln high schools and Beatrice. Lincoln Northeast will be favored, but any of the other three could walk off with the honors, and all games should be thrillers.

Beatrice, particularly, is looking better every week. The Orange-men get their first important test here Saturday against Lincoln High.

Nebraska Wesleyan will host what should be an outstanding Class A tourney, with Crete, Pius X and Falls City sharing the role of favorite. But the other entrants, Columbus, Fairbury, Plattsmouth, Seward and Nebraska City could make things rough.

Wesleyan will also hold a Class B tourney, in which University High is entered. Others in the district are Ashland, Milford, Wilber, Wymore, Syracuse, Tecumseh, and Auburn.

There don't appear to be any state title prospects in this group, but they are as evenly matched as any district in the state—meaning the tournament play here should be close and exciting.

The same goes for the Class C tourney to be held at Lincoln Southeast. Entered are Mead, Valparaiso, Ceresco, Louisville, Nehawka, Weeping Water, Palmyra and Waverly. Should be another dilly of a meet.

When we start writing about state basketball playoffs, track can not be far behind.

Not that I don't like basketball. It's just that the sport provides a sportswriter with his busiest season, with considerably more work to be done than any other.

But track is our meat.

While in New Mexico, we were limited pretty much to writing about one track team, since one Albuquerque high school has dominated the sport for the past six years, winning the state title each of those years easily.

This high school pulled one of the crowning achievements in high school track last year by winning two big relay meets in the same day, and scoring over 95 points in each meet. Every other team in the state was entered in one or the other of those meets. In addition, the school broke over 15 records in that day.

Highland High School has pulled New Mexico prep track from a low point among the states into a position where the state is fast becoming respectable. In fact, in a survey I made last year, I found that New Mexico ranked above Nebraska preps in 12 of 14 common events.

Nevertheless, it will be nice to see some close team competition this year. While New Mexico has had to settle for good individual battles, Nebraska can boast both phases of track which, to my mind, make it my favorite sport.

No other sport combines both team and individual competition as well-plus the ingredient of competing against the watch or yardstick as track.

Floyd Urged To Defend

... 'For Any Promoter'—Norris

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, Wednesday urged champion Floyd Patterson's manager to "fight for any promoter, but let's get the heavyweight division activated again."

The IBC and Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, long have been at odds, although Norris declared any grievance has been imaginary on D'Amato's part.

Norris is here for today's signing of middleweight champion Carmen Basilio and Sugar Ray Robinson for their March 25 title bout at the Chicago Stadium.

"D'Amato says he won't do business with the IBC because we failed to live up to an agreement to get bouts for some of his preliminary fighters," said Norris.

"I thought I straightened that out after Patterson defeated Archie Moore for the heavyweight title. But I suspect this attitude of D'Amato's all was planned and if it wasn't that point, he would have picked another argument to back away."

"If I was a manager with the heavyweight champion of the world, I'd let other managers whose only living comes from preliminary fighters get some food for their table.

"Patterson simply is being used as a pawn in this thing, but I say let D'Amato go box for any promoter he wants to—and I'd like a chance to compete with any other promoter—and let's get the heavyweight division activated again."

Norris said that had the IBC been able to work with D'Amato "at least, one logical contender" already would have been fought with another title match in prospect for June.

"Patterson already should have faced Eddie Machen or Zora Foley, who meet March 17 at San Francisco, and then, if he won, he could meet the winner of a Willie Pastrano-Roy Harris match," said Norris.

"Our hands are tied by D'Amato's refusal to sit down and talk. I'm certainly not feuding with him. In this business, you can't afford feuds. I'd go to Alaska to make a heavyweight title match."

At Los Angeles, matchmaker George Parnassus Tuesday said he offered D'Amato $200,000 for Patterson to meet Foley, an offer D'Amato said he never received.

Disqualification Helps Rockets Nudge Link Swimmers, 46-40

Lincoln Northeast, thanks to a disqualification in the final relay, grabbed a 46-40 swimming victory over Lincoln High in a dual meet Wednesday.

Lincoln High led 40-39 going into the final event, the 160-yard freestyle relay, and took first place to insure the victory. But the Links were disqualified for leaving the pool too soon on the third exchange and Northeast was awarded the seven relay points and the meet.

Sophomore Bill Fowles of Lincoln High cracked the Northeast pool record with a 1:04.4 clocking in the 100-yard butterfly and Link

Southeast Matmen Fall To Cowboys

BOYS TOWN — Lincoln Southeast managed only three victories and a tie in dropping a 34-13 wrestling decision to Boys Town here Wednesday.

Winston Zimmerman, Dave Loos and Bill Van Cleave managed wins for the Knights while Don Sacks gained a tie. Boys Town grapplers pinned their man four times.

The Cowboys won the novice meet, 31-8.

95 pounds—Chester (BT) pinned Kuchis, 2:30; 105—Keller (BT) pinned Musselman, 3:48; 112—McGovern (BT) pinned Buck, 2:10; 120—Zimmerman (SE) dec. Niaggenberg, 2:49; 127—Mayor (BT) dec. Jack Named Utah Athletic Director

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—University of Utah's board of regents appointed James R. (Bud) Jack as athletic director Wednesday, but deferred decision on its choice for a new football coach until at least Jan. 30.

Both jobs were held by Jack Curtice, who leaves Utah March 1 to become football coach at Stanford University.

Jack, 39, has been Curtice's assistant since the departing coach arrived at Utah in 1950.

Former featherweight boxing champion Sandy Saddler now is a boxing second.

Stoneham Beams, Says Giants Will Improve

NEW YORK (AP)—Flushed with the largest advance sale in Giants' history, Horace Stoneham Wednesday promised San Francisco's baseball fans a "highly improved ball club" led by Willie Mays and backed up by two power-hitting youngsters.

"Everyone knows that Mays carried our club during the last few seasons in New York," said the Giants' president. "This year (manager) Bill Rigney's chief concern will be to line up some guys who can help Willie out."

"And," he added enthusiastically, "we think we have the men in Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland. We're giving the first base job to Cepeda right off the bat and Kirkland, if he hits the way we think he can, will start in the outfield."

Cepeda, 26-year-old Puerto Rican, batted .309 with 25 home runs for Minneapolis last season and Kirkland, who was in the army in 1957, stroked 37 homers and collected 120 RBIs for the Giants' same farm club in 1956.

Stoneham forecast an improved showing by ace pitcher Johnny Antonelli and said the left-hander's announced dissatisfaction with his 1958 contract "would be straightened out by this weekend." Antonelli lost 18 games and won only 12 for the sixth-place Giants.

Asked about the advance sale, Stoneham's normally ruddy complexion took on an even rosier hue.

"We'll go over the million mark for sure," he replied. "And considering that we haven't got a big ball park that'll be a great showing. We're adding 1,500 more seats the early part of next week and that will bring our capacity to 23,000."

"The enthusiasm out there is

Cowboy Tankers Dunk SE, 51-35

BOYS TOWN—Boys Town piled up an early lead here Wednesday and coasted to a 51-35 victory over Lincoln Southeast in a dual swimming meet.

Southeast managed only three firsts in individual events, but took up the slack with victories in both relays. John Taylor, Virgil Stewart and Jim Frank were the Knight winners.

Ted Pitman paced Boys Town with a first, second and third.

Results:
50-yard freestyle—Won by Taylor (SE); 2—Stover (BT); 3—Wilson (SE). Time—1:24.1.
100-yard butterfly—Won by Scott (BT); 2—Cocks (BT); 3—Brown (BT). Time—2:08.9.

Mims Earns Draw With Bobby Boyd

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Chicago's Bobby Boyd and ring-wise Holly Mims of Washington battled to a 10-round draw Wednesday night. Boyd was floored for the mandatory eight-count in the eighth round.

Mims, fighting for the first time since last April 19, came on strong in the later rounds and was sharper with the fewer punches he landed.

terrific. Our advance sale is way ahead of what it was in New York last year. We had our greatest pre-season rush for tickets in 1955 after the team won the World Series the previous year. But we're even ahead of that."

The Giants, with the largest capacity in the National League (55,000), drew only 650,000 in 1957.

National League pitchers, Stoneham said, should have no cause to criticize the fences in Seals' Stadium as they did the 250-foot barrier in the Los Angeles Coliseum earlier this season. The distances to the foul lines in San Francisco are 365 feet in left field, 410 in center and 355 in right.

"Mays is one guy who should benefit considerably from the layout. Some of his drives that were just long outs in the Polo Grounds will mean something now. Willie should have his greatest year."

Concordia Grabs County Title, 53-35

SEWARD — Seward Concordia came alive in the final minutes here Wednesday night to topple Milford 53-35 for the championship of the Seward County basketball tournament.

Concordia, the top-rated Class C team, led only 34-27 after three quarters, but poured in 19 points in the final period to win easily.

Milford climbed to within two points of the Raiders in the final period, before Concordia pulled away. The loss was the first of the season for Milford.

Jim Juergensen paced the winners with 13 points while Jake Schurzinger had 15 for Milford.

The Concordia reserves beat the Garland reserves 37-32 in the Class B finals.

Concordia 11 12 11 19—35
Milford 8 12 8 35
Winner's high: Jim Juergensen, 23.
Loser's high: Jake Schurzinger, 15.

Air Service For Northern Part Of State Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraska congressmen have asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to authorize air service for the northern section of the state.

The six-member Republican delegation, in a letter to CAB members, said they felt Examiner Curtis Henderson "was in no way justified" in not including the proposed Casper-Omaha route in the Seven States Area Case.

They pointed out that Henderson's recommendation in the case leaves the northern section of Nebraska without air service.

"We can state unequivocally," the congressmen said, "that the service is tragically needed."

The delegation said Henderson's recommendations for the state were consistent with proposals from Nebraska "as far as they went."

Sens. Curtis and Hruska and Reps. Miller, Harrison, Weaver and Cunningham also told the CAB members they believed the northern route would cost the government less in subsidies than the board has properly authorized to be paid in numerous other cases.

"We positively do not think the subsidy requirement will turn out to be as great as is estimated," they said further.

Colorado May Get More Snow

Light snow showers are forecast Thursday for the Lakes region, portions of northern New England and the higher elevations of Colorado. Cold weather will continue over the east with warmer temperatures in store for the northwest. Cloudy skies are probable for the lower Mississippi Valley, Texas and Canadian border states. Clear to partly cloudy skies are expected elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

H. Crosby Accepts Legal Post With U.S. Interior Dept.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) — Horace Crosby, North Platte attorney, and his family left Wednesday for Washington, D. C., where he will join the legal office of the Department of the Interior in the power division. The Crosbys will live in Alexandria, Va.

Another Nebraskan, Fred A. Seaton, Hastings publisher, serves as secretary of the Interior Department.

Crosby, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Crosby of North Platte, is a brother of former Gov. Robert B. Crosby and Mrs. Donald F. Kline, both of Lincoln.

Alliance Jaycees Give Awards To Burnham, Manion

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP) — The Alliance Junior Chamber of Commerce announced its annual awards to outstanding young men of 1957.

Phil Burnham, 35, wire chief for the Burlington railroad here, was given the Jaycee distinguished service award; and Jack Manion, 32, director of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Assn., was named the outstanding young farmer.

Rural Church Facing A Big Responsibility

... Conference Told

Several key words must be considered if the town and country church is to adequately serve the needs of village people in our world.

"These words are personnel, planning, program, persistence, perspiration and prayer."

Richard O. Comfort, executive director of the National Council of Churches at New York City, made that statement at a town and country inter-church dinner here Wednesday night.

The dinner was held in connection with the Nebraska Town and Country Church conference on the College of Agriculture campus at the University of Nebraska. The conference continues through Friday.

"As the town and country church faces our world today, it has a tremendous responsibility," Comfort said. "It has been estimated that over two-thirds of the world's population still live in rural areas. While the conditions of rural people vary from country to country, there are several problems that face rural people which the church must recognize."

"These problems are unemployment and underemployment, inadequate village schools, poor health and inadequate health facilities, illiteracy and an inadequate church program," Comfort says.

Dr. Peebles, 76, Omaha, Is Dead

OMAHA (AP) — Dr. William W. Peebles, 76, Omaha dentist for more than half a century, died in an Omaha hospital.

Dr. Peebles, with the rank of captain, was the highest ranking Negro dental surgeon in World War I. He was active in American Legion affairs and was a past commander of Roosevelt Post No. 30.

Survivors include a son, William Jr., of New York, and a sister, Mrs. Mamie P. Thomas, Baltimore, Md.

Funeral services will be at St. Philip's Episcopal Church at 10 a.m. Saturday.

She Says Baker's Best For Dandruff-Itchy Scalp

RIVERTON, Neb. — Mrs. J. W. Woods, says: "I had given up hope of ever getting relief from the misery and embarrassment caused by dandruff and itchy scalp. I heard about Baker's Hair Tonic, and what it had done for others, so decided to try one more thing. It is really wonderful, and I want everybody troubled with dandruff and itchy scalp to know about it."

Imler Children Having Fine Time; Delighted With Nebraska's Snow

JUNIATA, Neb. (AP) — Elden Imler's children are in school in Nebraska and having a fine time while their father hunts for a job and plans for the future, Imler said Wednesday.

They never mention their former home in Australia which they left with their father a little more than a week ago when efforts to patch up their broken home failed.

Imler said Larry, 6, attends first grade in Juniata and Linda, 5, goes to kindergarten in the afternoons. The children greeted their first Nebraska snowstorm with glee, he said. They were all ready for it with overshoes, overcoats and caps and have been having a fine time.

Imler said he has not made any definite plans yet but will remain at the home of his sister, Mrs. Elvah Persinger, while he looks for a job.

He said he has written to his estranged wife, the former Pamela Robertson of Adelaide, that if she wants to hear from the children he'll see that they answer and "I'll write anything they tell me to."

Imler said he is retaining an attorney here but not to start divorce proceedings. "That's up to her," he reiterated.

Shanahan Gets Railroad Post

OMAHA (AP) — General Supt. O. A. Durrant of the Union Pacific Railroad announced appointment of T. F. Shanahan as superintendent of the Railroad's Nebraska Division.

Shanahan formerly was special representative in the office of the vice president of operations. The Nebraska division extends westward from Omaha to Cheyenne, Wyo.

'Taxes Forcing Small Businessmen Out'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of a Nebraska dairy company said Wednesday the government, through its tax laws, is forcing small businessmen "to give up the struggle."

J. Gordon Roberts, board chairman of the Roberts Dairy Co. of Omaha, also said in testimony prepared for the House Ways and Means Committee, that such laws are primarily responsible for an increase in mergers and concentration of business in large national firms.

'Drying Up Initiative'
Roberts said present estate laws "are drying up initiative within this nation at its source."

He called for passage of legislation to permit a small business to set aside 10 per cent of its net earnings before taxes over a period of years.

He said these funds then could be used to redeem enough of an owner's stock upon his death to permit the estate to meet "the impact of federal estate taxes without forcing his estate to put his stock on the block."

The Nebraska said small firms should be allowed and encouraged by the Federal Government to continue as independents, locally owned businesses.

When "a business like ours" sells out to a large national concern, Roberts said, the payroll is substantially retained, but within the first two years supervisory positions undergo almost a complete turnover.

Operational Changes
Other operational changes, he continued, result in many financial losses or reductions in the community in such items as insurance, advertising, and bank deposits, among others.

Roberts said if he died before his wife, federal estate taxes would be about $425,000. But if his wife should die first, the tax would then amount to about one million dollars without the marital deduction.

"Obviously," he said, "my estate could not meet the impact of any such tax as that without selling the stock in the business for whatever it would then bring."

On the other hand, Roberts said, national concerns have proposed purchase plans with a stock exchange on which there would be no income tax assessed, a lifetime job at a substantial income plus assurances that his estate would have no trouble raising money to meet taxes.

Roberts said so far he has resisted offers of a sale "but these attractions have been too much for thousands of other owners of small business across the country."

'58 Nebraska Officials Meeting Set For Omaha

OMAHA (AP) — The 1958 Nebraska Officials Assn. convention will be in Omaha, O. H. Ross of Madrid, president-elect of the association, announced.

Miller Discloses Move Afoot To Overrule 'No New Starts'

... For Reclamation Or Flood Control Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strong move is afoot to overrule President Eisenhower's recommendation of no new starts for reclamation or flood control this year, Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) said Wednesday.

Referring in his weekly news letter to the President's "no starts" recommendation, Miller said: "At first this sounded like the death knell of Nebraska projects, but a strong move is afoot which joins the advocates of flood control and reclamation in a union to overrule the no new starts idea."

"If this is successful, projects like Ainsworth, Farwell and Gerring Valley, which already had budget approval, may be a part of the program."

His Foreign Aid
While the President was demanding no new starts at home, Miller said, a considerable sum was asked for foreign aid, adding: "Millions of dollars will no doubt be spent overseas on irrigation, reclamation, flood control and power projects that we can't get at home."

The Nebraskan noted, however, that funds were approved to complete the Sargent Irrigation district and the Glendo Dam and to build a stub transmission line from Fort Randall Dam to the Nebraska border.

"The latter," he said, will bring new incentive to build the 230 kv line to the Grand Island and Lincoln areas. In addition about a quarter million dollars is allotted for investigation of new projects.

Virg Hill Joins Staff Of Phoenix Gazette
FAIRBURY, Neb. (AP) — Virg Hill, former publisher of the Fairbury Daily News, has taken a post with the Phoenix Gazette, Phoenix, Ariz., where he will cover state politics. He goes to his new post Jan. 27.

Hill recently sold his Fairbury interests to Bert Carlyle.

Herrington: Assessors Too Modest

OMAHA (AP) — County assessors might well sound off more on tax legislation, state Tax Assessor Fred Herrington said Wednesday. They have, he added, been too shy about blowing their own horn as experts in the field.

Herrington's address to the annual convention of the assessors was a short one, spiced with remarks such as, "Nebraska assessors have had pretty dismal results in attempting to influence legislation which might improve taxation."

He said the assessors should be leaders in the matter of tax legislation but in adopting a program they should not try to "cure all our ills at once."

"This has been a bad year for you when it comes to public relations. I want to compliment you on your conduct during some trying circumstances," Herrington said.

Melkus Named State President Of Contractors

OMAHA (AP) — Leonard Melkus of Grand Island was named president of the Nebraska Building Chapter of the Associated Contractors of America Wednesday, succeeding Verner M. Meyers of Lincoln.

Other officers elected by the Nebraska chapter board are M. G. Van Scoy, Omaha, vice president, and Wallace Borchman, Omaha, treasurer.

The convention continues through Thursday.

A. R. Miller, 78, Retired Farmer At Adams, Dies

Lincoln Star Special

ADAMS, Neb. — Funeral services for Allen R. Miller, 78, retired farmer who died at his home near here Wednesday, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Zion Lutheran Church east of Pickrell. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Mr. Miller came to the U.S. with his parents from Germany at the age of seven. The family settled near Crab Orchard. Later he farmed for many years near Adams.

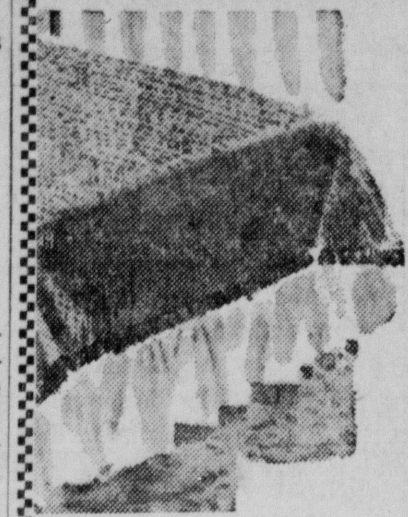

Surviving are his wife, Delia; four sons, Ollie and Emil, both of Adams, Andrew, at home, and Edward of Filley; four daughters, Mrs. Mary Wallman, Mrs. Emma Parde and Mrs. LaVerne Frerichs, all of Beatrice, and Mrs. Grace Scheneweise of Adams; three brothers, seven sisters, 20 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

Probe Raises Charges Of Fraud In Frisco Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate rack-ets investigators raised charges Wednesday of fraud and forgery in the handling of thousands of dollars of union funds by officers of the huge San Francisco Operating Engineers Union.

Testimony and evidence centered on such items as "false entries" in the books, phony minutes of meetings, inflated election returns, an aerial check cashing expedition, and money going to such things as a plane, a pleasure yacht and a race track operator.

The top target was Victor S. Swanson, once the business manager and real boss of the local and a vice president of the international union. He was booted out of both posts last year.

The bookkeeper for Local 3, E. L. Garrett, told the Senate's Special Investigating Committee "false entries" were made on orders from Swanson. Treasurer Porter E. Vandewark said he was aware of some financial irregularity.

But President Patrick W. Clancy said he knew nothing of any fraud or forgery. He said he may be stupid but he isn't dishonest.

Slipped Into Files

Testimony under oath produced evidence that doctored minutes of executive board meetings were slipped into the files to cover the mysterious spending of at least $26,500—and an aerial check cashing expedition by Clancy and Vandewark.

Committee counsel Robert E. Kennedy got only denials from Vandewark that the treasurer had a part in faking the records.

Vandewark said a daughter, Mrs. Gerald Williams, never had done any typing for the union, on minutes of meetings or anything else.

"We just talked to her on the phone, at a quarter of two," Kennedy said, "and she said she did a lot of typing for you. And she said specifically she thought she did some typing of minutes for you—that you brought them over to her home."

The treasurer said he was certain that was wrong.

Denial

"You would deny you had her type these altered minutes?" Kennedy asked.

"Yes, sir," was the answer.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) asked Garrett whether Swanson ever had ordered him to "cover up" anything in the books.

The witness said "there are cases I have learned of, that's correct." Goldwater said this didn't answer the question. Garrett went on to say that "the only one I can recall was in connection with the purchase of the launch" but that it wasn't exactly an order.

He said the books showed the $20,000 yacht cost only $10,000 but that the first time he saw it he knew it must have cost more.

"You know now you were told to make false entries," McClellan suggested.

"Yes, sir," Garrett said.

Four Clerks

The bookkeeper testified he and Swanson were two of the four tally clerks who counted the local's vote in the 1956 election of international officers—and certified that far more ballots were cast than actually were.

Garrett said that at Swanson's direction, the ballots were taken to a $8,500 cabin the union owns some 140 or 150 miles from San Francisco. He said some 2,000 to 3,000 votes were cast, that 500 or 600 were counted, and then Swanson called a halt. He said Swanson determined how many votes should be awarded the various candidates on the basis that a trend had been established.

Kennedy said that out of maybe 3,000 votes cast and 600 counted, a friend of Swanson running for 5th vice president got 6,472 to 354 for his opponent. There were similar counts for others, he said.

Garrett identified a union check made out to cash, for $2,500 and dated Nov. 7, 1950. It carried a notation that it was for "general organizing" and was endorsed by William Kyne.

Committee records list Kyne, now dead, as having been manager in 1950 of the California Jockey Club, which runs Bay Meadows Race Track at San Francisco.

Meyers Again Heads State Aeronautics Bd.

M. "Mike" Meyers of Omaha Wednesday was re-elected chairman of the Nebraska Aeronautics Commission.

Roland Harr, State Aeronautics Department director, told the commissioners the annual Nebraska aerial applicators short course would be held Feb. 13-14 in Lincoln.

The course, designed to teach new methods of crop dusting, will be sponsored by the Aeronautics Department, the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, and the Nebraska Aviation Trades Assn.

Air Space Problem

The Trades Assn. will hold its annual convention in conjunction with the short course. Main topic of convention discussion will be "The Current Air Space Problem," Harr said.

Commissioners, aside from Meyers, present at the meeting, included: W. W. Cook of Beatrice;

C. H. Fliesbach of Scottsbluff, and Jess Quinn of Gothenburg.

W. J. Kreuscher, state airport engineer, said the Aeronautics Department completed the following projects during the month ending Jan. 22:

Alliance—Revised preliminary floor plans for an administration building were transmitted to the Civil Aeronautics Administration for approval. Federal construction funds from the state's 1958 apportionment were requested.

Beatrice—Final construction plans were forwarded to the CAA. Federal funds for clear zones and an extension of the north-west-south-east runway were allocated from the state's 1958 apportionment.

Broken Bow—The grading and lighting of the north-west-south-east landing strip and paving of a small apron was completed.

Chadron—Federal funds from the 1959 airport program were requested for construction of a paved north-west-south-east runway clear zone acquisition and obstruction removal.

Columbus—A revised master construction plan was sent to CAA for approval. Federal funds will be requested from the state's 1958 apportionment for an extension of the north-west-south-east runway.

Crete—The CAA approved final plans for installation of medium intensity lighting for the north-south runway.

Fairbury—A contract was signed for construction of an addition to the administration building.

Gavins Point—Preliminary site surveys were made. Project will include land acquisition, grading, marking of a north-west-south-east landing strip, and a parking area.

Grand Island—Final plans for addition to administration building were prepared. In addition to plans for a connection taxiway from the north-south runway.

Grant—Bids were taken for grading, drainage, turfing and marking of a north-west-south-east landing strip. Beal Construction Co. of Brule was successful bidder.

Imperial—A revised master plan for a trunk category airport was approved.

Mitchell—Preliminary plans for construction of an all-weather surfacing of a north-west-south-east runway will be started in near future.

Norfolk—Final plans for installation of the elevated runway lighting systems for the paved runways were approved. Bids will be received March 3.

Omaha—Negotiations were nearly completed for the clear zone acquisition for the north-west-south-east runway. Construction of a lighted winter and connecting taxiway will be completed in near future.

O'Neill—Contract was signed for construction of a new administration building. Low bidder was Udey Construction Co. of Neligh.

Omaha—Grading of a new north-west-south-east landing strip was nearly completed.

Scottsbluff—Bids will be received Jan. 27 for installation of medium intensity lighting on the north-west-south-east runway.

Scribner—Construction of concrete taxiway connecting north-south runway and apron area was nearly completed.

Sidney—Construction operations for extension of concrete runway and apron and widening of connecting taxiway were suspended until April 1.

Springview—Construction of grading and marking of north-west-south-east landing strip and parking area was completed except for turfing.

Valentine—Revised master plan and preliminary construction plans for a trunk category airport were prepared. Plans include extension of north-west-south-east runway and apron for airline service.

Alliance Rancher Hall Named To Commission

Gov. Victor Anderson Wednesday announced the appointment of Alton B. Hall Sr. of Alliance, a 60-year-old rancher and pilot, to the State Aeronautics Commission.

He completes the unexpired term of B. M. Reeh of Blair.

The governor termed Hall "a wonderful aviation enthusiast."

Hall has been a licensed pilot for many years, owns his own aircraft, has been a member of the Nebraska Flying Farmers and Ranchers Assn. since its formation and was elected District 5 director of that organization in 1956. He also has served as director of the National Flying Farmers Assn., is a member of Masons, Scottish Rite and Shrine in Scottsbluff.

Hall resides at his western Nebraska ranch but also maintains a home in Alliance.

Presidential-Disability Commission Plans Make Progress In Lower House

WASHINGTON (INS) — House leaders reportedly neared agreement Wednesday on legislation to set up a special commission to determine when a President is too ill to perform his duties.

In an unusual bipartisan meeting, House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) and House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) conferred on so-called "inability" legislation.

They met for more than an hour in Rayburn's office along with Chairman Celler (D-NY) and members of his House subcommittee which has been studying the inability problem.

Martin told the newsmen after the session that the group found a "basis for substantial agreement" on a commission-type plan.

Meanwhile, Rep. Keating (R-NY) made public a letter from Chief Justice Earl Warren opposing any legislation which would include Supreme Court justices on such a commission.

Warren said all members of the court believe, for a number of "insurmountable" reasons, that it would be "inadvisable" for any justice to serve on such a group.

Keating said in advance of Wednesday's meeting that "all hands now agree that the administration plan is best. Up to now that has been the main hurdle."

After the meeting, he said his statement still stands.

The administration last year proposed that the cabinet decide when a President is unable to carry out the duties of his office because of illness or other misfortune.

Celler, as chairman of the subcommittee, proposed that the vice president make this decision. But both plans, for all practical purposes, have now been scrapped.

Keating said that with the commission plan in favor "the only problem left to be surmounted is the specific makeup of such a group."

GOOD OLD DAD

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Circus trapeze artist Donna De Young fell 30 feet from a trapeze bar Wednesday night.

A sudden breeze swayed the tent and her trapeze bar and the 16-year-old performer missed her footing.

The horrified audience saw her plunge head first toward the ground. Her father, in clown costume and makeup, dashed forward, braced himself and caught her.

Several minutes later she was performing again.

Farm Bureau: 'Congress Fears Control Use'

"Congressmen will not give farmers price support laws to control production," Bernie Camp, State Farm Bureau information director said Wednesday, "because they are unwilling to risk the personal unpopularity inherent in the controls necessary to balance production with need."

Camp said: "The overlooked fact is that, to be effective, price supports require a generally unpalatable restriction on production."

Ike Won't Hand Over Secret Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower refused Wednesday to give Congress a look at two secret reports on the national defense situation. He said congressional committees had access to the same information and implied they could draw their own conclusions from it.

A Senate preparedness subcommittee headed by Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.) has been trying for several weeks to get reports by Dr. James R. Killian, the president's scientific adviser, and the Gaither committee.

Both are said to be sharply critical of the present defense effort. There have been published stories that the Gaither report, drawn up by a presidential panel appointed last spring, portrays the United States as facing the gravest danger in its history.

But James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, has said the report does not depict this country in a position of military weakness "at this time."

Eisenhower wrote Johnson Wednesday, "I have concluded that I cannot properly furnish these reports to the Congress or release them for publication."

The President told Johnson, the Senate's democratic leader, that "throughout our history the President has withheld information whenever he found that what was sought was confidential or that its disclosure would jeopardize the nation's safety or the proper functioning of our government."

Eisenhower went on to say that groups appointed to advise him do their work with the understanding that their advice will be kept confidential.

Stocks Irregular;
Lose Early Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—News of lower money rates brought only a brief celebration to the stock market Wednesday. The market pursued an irregular course and ended lower.

It was a moderate decline. Key issues dropped fractions to a point or more, generally. There was an assortment of gainers among pivotal stocks, notably the tobacco.

Aircraft took some fairly sharp losses. Steels, motors, rails and oils were down. Wall Street spokesmen have been predicting lower money rates for some time. The Federal Reserve Board dropped the discount rate for the Philadelphia Reserve Bank to 2 1/2 per cent from 3 per cent after the close Tuesday. Then a step of cutting their prime lending rate to 4 per cent from 4 1/2 per cent.

With this news, the market started off with heavy trading and slight higher prices. The Dow Jones Industrial Average for five minutes at the opening, then trading slowed and prices turned mixed. In the final hour and a half the market sank from a slight edge to the upside to a definite, though moderate loss.

Market analysis said that Wall Street has made as much noise about credit-easing steps that the actual event was anticipated. At the same time, corporate news was on the dismal side.

The Associated Press average of 60 stock prices declined 50 cents, the Dow Jones Industrial Average 80 cents, the rails down 70 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Of 119 issues traded, gainers totaled 470 and losers 474. New highs for 1957-58 totaled 40 and new lows 41.

Trading volume was 1,160,000 shares compared to 1,160,000 Tuesday.

Firemen Seek Explosive Gas Sold As Fuel

CHICAGO (AP)—Fifty firemen Wednesday night began a house-to-house search for a number of persons who bought an explosive gasoline mixture instead of fuel oil for their stoves.

The Fire Department also used a public address system mounted on a fire truck to warn residents of the four-square mile on the Southwest Side of the danger.

Officials of the Martin Oil Co. discovered the error and notified authorities. The company said the petroleum mixture of gas and fuel oil was mistakenly sold at its station at 1,000 S. Sacramento Blvd.

About 100 persons purchased the mixture for use in cooking stoves, the oil company said.

Fire officials said some persons who purchased the volatile mixture have been notified. The Martin Company said it was unable to determine how the mistake occurred.

Gillen Heads Inter-Com Club

R. F. Gillen has assumed his duties as the new president of the Inter-Com Club.

Other 1958 officers are James Ebel, vice president; Fred Herrington, treasurer; and Lt. Cmdr. Donald Edge, secretary.

New directors are Robert Ammon, Dr. John Clyde and Fred Herrington. Re-elected directors are Gillen and Burnham Yates.

Holdover directors are Carl Olson, George X. Smith, Gerald Hunt, James Ebel, Lt. Col. Thomas Powell, Maj. John Murray, Maj. Robert Dorothy, Maj. John Ruehle, Lt. Cmdr. Donald Edge, and Capt. Andrew Hare.

The Inter-Com Club is composed of Lincoln officers of the Armed Forces and Lincoln businessmen.

Mrs. Dunn New Vice Chairman For GOP Women

State Executive Chairman R. E. Speltz announced Thursday the appointment of Mrs. Charles S. Dunn of Fremont as Division 3 vice chairman of the newly organized GOP Women's Division.

Mrs. Dunn is to work with county organizations in the division to help set up Republican Women's Clubs in principal cities, Speltz said.

Counties in Division 3 are Knox, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota, Antelope, Pierce, Wayne, Thurston, Boone, Madison, Stanton, Cumby, Burr, Nance, Merrick, Platte, Colfax and Dodge.

Mrs. John Dean of Lincoln previously was named vice chairman for Division 1. Still to be made are appointments of vice chairmen for the five other divisions in the state.

Kearney 'Gratified' Normal Board Plans Survey Of Colleges' Facilities

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Harold Bacon of Kearney said Wednesday that the Kearney group is "gratified" that Normal Board President Bruce Hagemester has announced there will be a survey made of the physical facilities of the four state teachers colleges.

Bacon is one of a group of Kearney citizens which has led a fight to get more appropriations for building needs at Kearney State Teachers College.

Bacon said, "We are gratified that the Board has taken this action. It's one we have urged."

Hagemester said official board action will be taken as soon as board Secretary Albin Larson completes checking the availability of survey firms to do the job.

Vic Asked Survey
Gov. Anderson had asked that

Shipments Of Grain To Total 3 Million Bu.

Total shipments of grain and corn this year from Commodity Credit Corp. grain bins in 72 Nebraska counties may reach three million bushels, Wilfred R. Nelson, committee chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, announced Wednesday.

Approximately 1.5 to 2 million bushels of government-held corn, together with grain held in "country stocks" or commercial grain warehouses will move out to make room for grain which CCC bins are expected to receive this year, Nelson said.

Shipping orders are expected to be received by the counties next week and most shipments are expected to be completed in three weeks.

The corn is destined for possible export, the ASC office reported.

Richard Lefferdink, office manager for the Lancaster County ASC Committee, said about 51 railroad cars, or 104,000 bushels of corn will be shipped from Lancaster County bins.

Lefferdink said Lancaster County CCC bins now have approximately 1,700,000 bushels of corn and 338,000 bushels of wheat in storage.

MARINE STARTS 2-YEAR TERM FOR BEATINGS

YOKOSUKA, Japan (Thursday) (INS)—A U.S. Marine Wednesday began serving a sentence of two years at hard labor for beating and degrading inmates of a Navy prison as the curtain rang down on the 16 Sasebo Brig brutality trials.

Sgt. Adrian A. McLane, 23, of Philadelphia, who was sentenced Wednesday after being convicted by a court-martial, thus returned to a Navy brig—this time as a prisoner instead of a warden.

An eight-man court-martial board at Yokosuka U. S. Naval Base also sentenced him to a dishonorable discharge and "busted" him to the rank of private.

It was the most severe sentence meted out in the 16 trials.

Observers said Vice Adm. Roscoe Good, Japan Naval commander may lessen the term of confinement.

the survey by an independent outside agency be made for his guidance in deciding whether to approve or veto proposed building projects at Peru and Kearney Teachers Colleges.

Gov. Anderson said Wednesday he was "very pleased" with the Normal Board decision to authorize a survey of the four state teachers colleges.

"I commend the Board for authorizing the survey. It will give the Board members valuable information in determining the physical needs of the four schools."

The board has given initial approval to a new $850,000 physical education building at Kearney and a $400,000 practical arts building at Peru.

The proposals have gone to the governor who, under an act of the last Legislature, holds veto power over individual building plans financed out of the state's institutional building fund.

Protested

Kearney interests have protested the proposed Peru expenditure as an improper use of taxpayer money.

Peru officials have defended their building needs.

Cost of the survey of normal schools has been estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000.

Hagemester said it appears the board will have enough money to finance the study.

Gov. Anderson has said there are two methods which might be used to obtain funds for the survey if the Normal Board feels it does not have enough money.

Ways To Pay

The governor said he believes the survey cost could be paid out of the board's share of the institutional building fund, or that he would be willing to poll the members of the Legislature to ask for their approval of a deficit appropriation for the survey.

The Normal Board has asked the attorney general's office for opinions on two matters pertaining to the colleges' building problems and the survey matter.

The total cost of the two proposed buildings exceeds the amount allocated to the Normal schools for their share of the building funds for this biennium.

One of the opinions sought is whether the Board could contract for both buildings in this biennium knowing that it wouldn't have the funds available.

While payments are made upon completion, and both buildings could not be constructed within this biennium, one reliable source reported that no agency can contract for more than its share of building funds in any biennium.

The other opinion sought is whether building fund money could be used for the survey, but Gov. Anderson said he believes this is possible.
